Congress Speeds Up To Adjourn Session Saturday

EMERGENCY DOCKET IS NEARING END

Favorable Action On Recovery Bill Today Will Mean Close Of Session

SENATE WORKS LATE

Fight To Insert General Sales Tax Grows Hot; Amendment Is Passed

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—President Roosevelt has clocked the delegation to the London economic conference with the power to negotiate general tariff agreements, it was learned today at the White House.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—Leaders drove with speed on the industrial recovery bill today hoping congress might adjourn tomorrow night.

The senate's one big fight over the industrial control bill centered around tax provisions. Senator Pat Harrison, Dem., Miss., who is steering the industrial bill, said that if that measure goes through today adjournment tomorrow would be possible.

In the house, leaders, within less than 30 minutes today, rushed through to approval the conference reports on the railroad control bill and the home mortgage measure.

This put congress near the end of its emergency docket, and brought the weary members nearer to the prospect of breaking away from Washington's steaming tropical heat.

Night Session

The senate sat until 11 p. m. last night, the hottest night in Washington and resumed an hour early today.

President Roosevelt has been quietly applying the pressure to encourage early adjournment. One reason is that he wants to have congress out of the way when the world economic conference meets in London Monday. Another reason is that he would just as soon not have congress on hand when the ticklish war debt payment date falls due next Thursday.

A third and strictly personal reason is that after bearing with seldom broken good humor the

STATE SALARY BILL BEFORE GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 9.—(UP)—State employees will know within the next ten days whether they are to have their pay cut.

Governor Rolph has received the last of the 1100 bills passed by the legislature, including four highly controversial measures. These are:

The state employees salary reduction bill, which lowers wages of approximately 17,000 workers by $5,000,000; the measure taking from automobile clubs road-signing work and turning it over to the state department of public works; the bill increasing the minimum age for kindergarten attendance from 4 1/2 to 5 years, and the measure which would impose an 8-cent tax per pound on oleomargarine made from coconut oil.

ROOSEVELT TO NAME ENVOY TO GERMANY SOON

Patronage Mill Grinding At Top Speed As Session Nears End

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—The patronage mill was grinding at top speed today as the administration moved to obtain senate approval of dozens of important appointments before adjournment.

Postmaster General James A. Farley, who has been consulting daily with the president on patronage, expected Mr. Roosevelt would be able to clear the slate of nearly all diplomatic appointments and scores of others upon which action had been deferred.

Friends of the president expected him to name an ambassador to Germany within 24 hours.

Mr. Roosevelt was prepared to announce selection of John Cudahy, Milwaukee, Wis., real estate operator, as minister to Poland, a position declined by Major James M. Curley of Boston.

It was felt he would attempt to dispose of some of the diplomatic plums in the Latin-American countries, few of which have been dealt out to date.

The Democrats in congress who were fed patronage in small doses during the extra session will return home in a happier frame of mind as the result of patronage developments this week, administration men felt.

Mr. Roosevelt sent a long list of appointments to the senate yesterday, and followed it up with another batch last night, including:

Peter J. Hagerty, San Francisco, to be superintendent of the mint at San Francisco.

Collectors of internal revenue: Sidney B. Osborn, district of Arizona; Lewis Penwell, district of Montana; John V. Lewis, 1st district of California; John P. Carter, 6th district of California.

Collector of customs: William B. George, at San Diego.

The senate last night confirmed the appointment of Rear Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of bureau of navigation of the navy department.

PROBE INTO BANK AFFAIRS IN RECESS

SACRAMENTO, June 9.—(UP)—Investigation of affairs of the closed California Trust and Savings Bank by the Sacramento county grand jury today recessed indefinitely at request of District Attorney Neil R. McAllister, so that he could "study the testimony."

The recess was ordered at conclusion of testimony by Fred W. Kiesel, president of the closed institution, in which he explained contradicted statements previously made to the grand jury.

Kiesel asserted he had committed no wrong in shipping $342,000 worth of securities of the Kiesel Estate company to Ogden, Utah, last May. The securities were not his personal property, he explained, were held only in trust for the company, and were returned at the request of the estate manager under permission granted by the bank receiver.

SCORCHING HEAT IN MIDWEST AND EAST TAKES 100 LIVES

YOUNG LAMONT TELLS HOW HE AVOIDED TAXES

Escapes Paying Income Tax To Government By Private Sales To Wife

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—Stock transactions by which a young partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan and Co., escaped an income tax of $1440 to $20,365, were presented with unexpected candor today to a senate investigating committee.

Thomas S. Lamont, "Young Tom" to his associates, did a right-about-face from his stubborn attitude of last week and revealed without hesitancy details of stock sales to his wife in the closing days of December, 1930.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, estimated that Lamont's personal stock transactions enabled him to avoid a tax of $20,365 on his 1930 income, but Lamont said he did not think it "possibly could have been so large."

Lamont said he had been "told" that the private sales to his wife saved him $14,400.29 and his wife $59,557. He disclosed errors in his and Mrs. Lamont's returns which saved them $2,055.56. Despite examination of the returns by federal officials these errors, which Lamont attributed to the general difficulty of understanding income tax technique, apparently never were corrected.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, brought out in questioning that there was no physical transfer of cash in the stock transactions between Lamont and his wife.

Their two accounts in J. P. Morgan & Co., were credited or debited as the stock changed hands, Lamont revealed that the debt was for $59,084.50 and had no collateral. He was unable to say whether he had collected interest on it before the settlement in the following April.

Davis followed Lamont's testimony with a statement defending the stock sales as legal, ethical and "not subject to justifiable criticism."

Pecora replied that the real question "is one of the bona fides and not of mere form."

William Ewing, another Morgan partner, was called to testify. He told of four trusts created in 1925 and 1926 by himself and his wife for their four children, William Jr., Jane, Jessie Valle and Grace Valle.

TUSTIN ORANGE GROWER NAMED AS LOAN AGENT

Paul Etzold Chosen Local Correspondent of Farm Loan Commissioner

APPOINTMENT OF Paul Etzold, Tustin, as local correspondent for the Farm Loan Commissioner has just been confirmed in a letter received by Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg in a letter from William H. Woolfe, district farm loan commissioner with offices in Berkeley.

Etzold, well known orange grower in the Tustin area was at one time connected with the Orange County Farm Bureau as assistant secretary. He will have his office in the Farm Bureau headquarters here and will assume his new duties immediately. All applications for the commissioner type of loans are to be filed with him.

Two types of farm loans are available under the new agricultural relief law. One of these types is the loan secured through the Federal Land Bank and the other is the Commissioner loan.

Commissioner loans are available under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and, under the act, are restricted to $5000 as the amount to be loaned to any one farmer. The loans are made on a 10 year basis with the borrower being required to pay only the interest for the first three years. Loans under the act bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum.

Under the relief measure the amount of the mortgage to the commissioner together with all former mortgages shall not exceed 75 per cent of the appraised value of the property. Appraisal of the property to determine the amount and eligibility of the loan will be by appraisers for the Farm Loan Bank.

Wahlberg said today that after Etzold receives an application for a loan and the security and approved both the application and security are turned over to an appraiser. If after a preliminary application they are considered eligible.

Following the appraisal of the security Etzold will consider the application and the appraiser's report and the applicant will be notified from the commissioner's office in Berkeley whether or not the loan will be made.

CLAIMS ATTACK IN HAWAII IS BRAWL

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—Governor Lawrence Judd of Hawaii advised delegate L. L. McCandless today that Honolulu police officials considered that the recent attack against two army officers at Honolulu was a mere "brawl."

The incident had assumed political importance here in the drive for passage of the Rankin bill to permit appointment of a mainland governor.

"The episode in question involved two army officers who witnessed claim were intoxicated and three local civilian young men," the governor reported. "The fight started in a dispute over place of parking an automobile. Local civilians claim the officers began the fight and the latter claim the contrary."

WHEAT SPURTS AS ALL ISSUES MOVE SKYWARD

Blistering Heat In Midwest West Is Incentive For Sensational Rally

NEW YORK, June 9.—(UP)—Blistering heat in the midwest brought a sensational rally in wheat today and set off a swift rally in stocks.

Wheat soared more than 2 cents a bushel over the previous close. Other grains made corresponding gains. Cotton rose $1 a bale. Other commodities improved.

Incentive also was furnished by another decline in the American dollar.

Opening trading was featured by declines in Postal Telegraph and Western Union issues on the stock and bond markets, induced by elimination of the rider in the railroad bill having the way for a merger of the companies. Postal preferred touched 26 1/4, off 9 1/4 points; Western Union 55, off 4 1/2, and their bonds off 1 to 7 points. These stocks recovered from the lows.

Indication that congress would adjourn shortly also was a stimulant.

The rally started in Radio Corporation stock, which came out in blocks of 1000 to 12,000 shares.

Commonwealth & Southern sold at 5 on a block of 50,000 shares. Later it made a new top for the year.

In the last few minutes of trading J. I. Case shot up to a new 1933 high of 51 1/2, off 9 3/8 points from the previous close. Other farm equipments including International Harvester, Advance Rumely and Oliver Farm Equipment, made new highs for the year.

American Telephone crossed its previous 1933 high of 123 1/4. Utilities generally were strong. They came out in huge blocks of 1000 to 10,000 shares.

Tobacco was strong and active, American B and Liggett B making new highs on wide gains. Traders anticipated an early advance in cigarette prices. Oils reached new highs, featured by Standard of New Jersey.

Rails and chemicals rallied along with the general market. Special issues like Bohn Aluminum, National Dairy, Corn Products and Hudson & Manhattan were higher.

Sales totaled 1,450,000 shares in the last hour, against 1,100,000 shares in the corresponding period yesterday. The day's total was 5,310,000 shares, against 5,360,000 yesterday. Curb sales were 1,200,000, against 1,446,000.

Dow-Jones preliminary averages: Industrial, 94.28 up 0.76; railroad, 42.98 off 0.06; utility 34.71 up 0.45.

HUNTSVILLE, Tenn., June 9.—(UP)—A sheriff's posse today found the bullet riddled body of Harvey Winchester, one of two men taken from Scott county jail by a mob last night on a roadside, near here.

About 100 armed men, mostly Tennessee mountaineers, stormed the jail last night and removed Winchester and Jerome Boyatt, both charged with mountain feud murders, according to Ethan Laxton, Scott county jailer.

Boyatt's body has not been found, but he was believed to have been slain also.

New Records Recorded In Many States

Little Relief In Prospect In Wide Spread Section Of Country

By UNITED PRESS
HEAT, OPPRESSIVE and inescapable for most, bore down upon wide areas of the United States today. Record or near record temperatures were reported from many sections, with relief in the form of showers predicted only for an indefinite future.

Deaths attributed to the heat-drownings principally—approached the 100 mark in the four days of the first widespread heat wave of the summer.

It was 86 in New York at 10 a. m., tying the all time June record, and at 11 a. m. it was 87, a new record for the day.

Reports from other parts of the country were that as the sun mounted it took the mercury with it toward the 90's recorded yesterday in the east, the 100's in the middle west and the 115 reported from the far west.

Children cried in crowded tenements and crowds became petulant in the sun baked streets of the cities, wheat belt farmers looked anxiously at their wheat, ripening too fast under the sun.

But up at Berlin, New York, Ambrose O'Neill made snowballs from a snow filled pocket in a mountain-side fissure.

At Madison, Wis., the legislature met at 5 a. m. in shirt sleeves, hoping to avoid the hottest hours of the day.

PLANS TO RELEASE DR. NIELSEN FOILED

DAIRY, KWANTUNG LEASED TERRITORY, June 9.—(UP)—An attempt to release Dr. Niels Nielsen, kidnapped American missionary, failed today when his abductors escaped a trap laid for them by Japanese-Manchu troops.

Troops were attempting to surround the bandits when their movements were detected. The brigands fled, presumably with their victim.

Nielsen was kidnapped last April from the Danish-American mission near here.

A new threat to the safety of Christian missionaries was reported here today from Chahar province, where Chinese troops were said to be looting villages. A number of fatalities was reported by the missionaries in asking for aid.

EXPERT TESTIFIED FOR CHAS. MITCHELL

NEW YORK, June 9.—(UP)—Harry W. Forbes, expert on tax law and one of Charles E. Mitchell's former attorneys, testified today at Mitchell's trial for alleged income tax evasion, as to his "instructions" to the former banker regarding the filing of his income tax for 1929.

Called as a defense witness, Forbes assumed part of the responsibility for declaring that Mitchell's sale of 18,300 shares of National City Bank stock to his wife, for the admitted purpose of showing a deductible stock market loss, was wholly legal.

His opinion, he said, was qualified by a declaration that a sale from husband to wife must be bona-fide, and that the wife must be "financially responsible."

PLANS DIVORCE

Elliott Roosevelt son of President Roosevelt, who will establish residence in Nevada in order that his wife may get a Reno divorce.

FIRST LADY IS RETICENT OVER SON'S AFFAIRS

Declines To Affirm Report Elliott Plans To Wed Fort Worth Girl

BULLETIN
NEWARK, N. J., June 9.—(UP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president, arrived by airplane at Newark airport at 12:40 p. m. after a flight from Los Angeles.

DALLAS, Tex., June 9.—(UP)—The Dallas News in a copyrighted story today quoted Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as saying "I really couldn't say anything about that," when questioned at Fort Worth about reports her son Elliott would marry Miss Ruth Googins of Fort Worth after obtaining a divorce in Nevada.

Mrs. Roosevelt was reticent in speaking of either the divorce or rumors of the new romance, the News said. Nor would she say that her trip was for the explicit purpose of talking with her son regarding the separation from his wife, daughter of a Philadelphia industrialist, who is now at the home of her parents.

Reports of the Fort Worth early March when the couple met at a party given by C. R. Smith of Dallas, the News said. Young Roosevelt then went to the west coast but returned to Fort Worth several week ends since and was seen much in the company of Miss Googins, the News said.

ROOSEVELT MISSING

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(UP)—Exact whereabouts of Elliott Roosevelt, whose impending divorce from his wife, Elizabeth, was confirmed by himself and his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, were uncertain today, although it was believed he was in Nevada to establish residence.

Young Roosevelt admitted yesterday that he and his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner, have agreed to part and that his wife will retain custody of their seven-month-old son, William Donner Roosevelt.

Friends said Elliott probably had gone to a ranch on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe to resume residence which he established at San Platt's ranch at Elk Point 10 days ago.

"For some time," the second son of the president said, "my wife and I have found that our life together was incompatible. We both dislike the idea of a divorce, but we now are convinced it is the best thing for both of us."

"I refused to admit a formal separation until I had talked the whole thing over with my mother. Also I have felt that any statement should be made by my wife. It is she who made the decision. In accordance with her suggestion, I will go to Reno and establish residence. The divorce will be obtained by my wife on grounds of incompatibility."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt confirmed her son's statement to newspaper men in Phoenix, Ariz., while en route to Newark, N. J., by air.

Elliott Roosevelt married the former Elizabeth Donner, daughter of William Donner, wealthy Philadelphian, January 16, 1932.

During his stop of nearly five hours he carefully inspected his plane and made final repairs.

Mattern took off at 4:10 a. m. Moscow time (9:10 p. m. Thursday EDT) from Bielevo, Siberia, where he had made a forced landing and had been delayed nearly two days.

Believed to be dying from mysterious gunshot wounds received in Trabuco canyon last night, Homer Niehard was brought to the Orange county hospital this afternoon.

Niehard had a wound in his head and three bullets in his chest when received at the hospital. He gave a conflicting story of how he was shot but indicated that there was a fight at his home in Trabuco. He also declared that he lived in Long Beach.

DISPUTE OVER VETS ECONOMY COMES TO END

WASHINGTON, June 9.—(UP)—The Democratic steering committee today unanimously adopted President Roosevelt's compromise veterans' economy program and will recommend its acceptance by the House.

The action was considered as definitely ending the veterans' dispute which has raged between congress and the White House.

The text of the legislation as finally agreed upon was not made public immediately but it was stated that except for technical details it followed recommendation formulated by budget Director Douglas and Veterans' Administrator Hines.

The proposal will be offered in the House tomorrow for consideration under a special rule as a substitute for the senate veterans' rider to the independent offices appropriation bill.

The plan is virtually the same one outlined after yesterday's White House conference.

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

BEVERLY HILLS, June 9. (To the Editor of the Register.) All I know is just what I read in the papers. I see where they are not going to discuss the war debts on account of it being rather embarrassing to discuss 'em on the day they are due. They're just going to make out like nobody is paying any attention to 'em and Europe won't be.

They talked about how fast Roosevelt got things done. Congress is going to make a snail out of him. They are going to undo in ten days what it took him ten weeks to do. Excuse me, I got to listen to the fight.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

Temple officials denied Hutton had been forced to resign. They said he had merely gone away "for a rest."

BUDGET CUTS ARE OBJECT OF COUNCILMEN

Probability that the city council will employ technical experts of the California Taxpayers' association to make a survey of the Santa Ana budget for next year, were seen today following a conference yesterday afternoon between city councilmen and officials of the organization.

Councilmen are endeavoring to cut the budget to a point where a tax rate reduction can be made. The matter will be brought up for action at the council meeting Monday night. The Taxpayers' association experts made a similar survey last year to suggest tax reductions and economies but the work this year, if approved, will be more exhaustive and complete. Instead of research work for one week, as was done last year, the report will probably take three weeks to complete.

If the council hires the investigators from the association, it will be about two weeks before Lloyd Banks, city auditor, can have the city budget in its preliminary form and allow work to start. The former department heads will come from the printers this week, allowing two weeks for conferences and estimates for next year.

Active participation of the Breakfast club in the big Fiesta del Oro program to be held in Santa Ana July 27, 28 and 29 was assured last night when members of the club voted their hearty support of the event.

Special Guests

Guests at the meeting included Mayor Paul Witmer, Councilman E. G. Warner, George A. Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce, District Attorney S. B. Kaufman, Constable Jesse Elliott and W. Maxwell Burke, member of the school board.

Following the dinner, which was served by members of the American Legion Auxiliary, members of the club pulled their chairs around the open fire to discuss plans for the Fiesta and other business matters.

Bruce Switzer announced that George Macloed, secretary of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce, had extended an invitation to the Breakfast club to meet the morning of June 25 at Newport and to participate in the annual fleet day parade program.

During the meeting a motion was passed making Ketter's cafe the official meeting place for the club in the future.

Tax Matters

Ivie Stein, chairman of the Santa Ana Merchants' association committee on arrangements for the Fiesta, spoke briefly, outlining plans for the event, which will be opened by the Breakfast club with a big street breakfast the morning of July 2.

George Raymer spoke briefly at the meeting, outlining the tax research work which is being carried on by the chamber of commerce tax committee. He said it has been estimated that taxpayers can be saved $650,000 a year in Orange county through the research work and that it is necessary to do something about lowering taxes in the county.

George Boyd of the El Rodeo club was named chairman of the Breakfast club committee for participation in the Fiesta, del Oro, and he will meet with club directors next Thursday morning to discuss definite plans for the event.

Father Arrested For Non-Support

Arrested by sheriff's officers on a charge of failing to support minor children, John W. Mahan, Moor Park, was brought to the county jail last night.

Neighbors of Mahan made the complaints, which were investigated by Deputy Sheriffs A. L. Eells and E. E. Perry.

RECOVERY BILL BEING RUSHED BY SENATORS

heaviest White House burden of any period since the war, Mr. Roosevelt longs to get away for a few days rest out to sea.

Passage of the industrial recovery bill hinged largely on the impending fight to insert the general sales tax in lieu of capital stock, excess profits and gasoline taxes to bring in $220,000,000 yearly. Should this develop into major proportions passage might be delayed until tomorrow.

Industrial Bill

Consideration of the industrial bill, one of the most important in President Roosevelt's emergency program, proceeded at a more rapid pace than on previous days.

Without debate an amendment making not less than $50,000,000 of the $300,000,000 (B) Public Works funds available for work on national forest and park roads, trails and bridges was accepted.

On the motion of Senator Copeland, Dem., N. Y., the senate struck from the bill a committee amendment which would require the specifications of all public works projects to fix the minimum rates of pay.

Copeland contended this provision might interfere with free collective bargaining. Under another section of the bill provision was made for the use of $25,000,000 in loans for the purchase of subsistence homesteads. This provision corresponds to the Bankhead bill which sought to permit a "back-to-the-soil" movement from industrial centers.

Once this bill is out of the way, the veteran question would be the only highly controversial business left.

A radiator cap on the car of Mrs. Jean W. Fiscus, 2041 North Main street, was stolen last night from 7:30 to 10 o'clock near Fourth and Main streets.

B. Santoya, 30, Placentia laborer, was brought to the county jail last night for drunkenness by Gus Barnes, Placentia police chief.

ARE YOU IN THIS PICTURE?

Civic-minded citizens of Santa Ana proudly inaugurating the scientific wonder of the day — the steam-driven trolley car, successor to the horse car, which plied between Santa Ana and Orange in the 90's! But, alas! the young whipper-snappers of the town, led by Terry Stephenson, soon dubbed it the "PEANUT ROASTER" and "THE DUMMY!" This event took place shortly after The First National Bank was established in Santa Ana in 1886, and we proved our policy of support of local enterprise by patronizing this demon of speed on every possible occasion!

47 Years!
 of faithful service this month!

Since June, 1886, The First National Bank has won and kept the confidence and co-operation of all, achieving unassailable strength, safety and soundness.

HIGHER COURT UPHOLDS PAPER ON SUIT APPEAL

In a minute order issued last yesterday Superior Judge James L. Allen reversed a verdict rendered last March in the court of Justice of the Peace Halsey I. Register at Fullerton finding the Register Publishing company and R. O. Farrell guilty of violating ordinance No. 407 of the city of Fullerton.

The Register Publishing company and Farrell were charged on February 25 with violating the city ordinance prohibiting the distribution of handbills or circulars without payment of a $25 license fee.

Judge Allen said this morning that the verdict had been reversed on the grounds that Chief of Police Pearson of Fullerton, the complaining witness, had summoned the jury that heard evidence in the case, and that his chief deputy, Officer Garner, himself a witness in the case, had been in charge of the jury and was in the room with the jurors during their deliberations.

At the trial Farrell testified that he had delivered papers only to addresses sent him from the office of the Register Publishing company. Officers of the company testified that 1500 addresses to which papers were ordered delivered on February 24, the day on which the alleged offense was committed, had been secured through the efforts of a solicitor and requests for the papers had been signed by residents at each address.

In a demurrer filed by Attorneys Burke and Colwell for the Register Publishing company and Farrell the question of the ordinance's constitutionality was raised. The demurrer was denied by the jury.

1—The jury was summoned by an interested party and two of the venire had been intentionally omitted, and that motion to dismiss the entire panel on this grounds was denied.

2—Demurrer to the complaint should have been sustained.

3—Nothing was shown that the ordinance set out in the complaint was violated by the defendants or either of them had violated it, and that a verdict of guilty was rendered only against the Register Publishing company.

4—That the offer of the defendants to show upon cross-examination of the complaining witness that he was prejudiced and biased in giving his testimony was denied by the court.

5—That a police officer who was a subordinate of the complaining witness and himself a witness for the plaintiff was placed in charge of the jury and was in the room with the jury during its deliberation and that the jury room was not a private place.

6—Nowhere was it shown that the defendant Register Publishing company or any of its officers had instructed or authorized its agent, R. O. Farrell, to violate any ordinance of the City of Fullerton, and if any violation occurred, it was wholly violated by Farrell and not the Register Publishing company.

Edwards, Anaheim apartment house owner, was denied probation this morning and upon waiving time for pronouncement of judgment was sentenced to San Quentin for from one year to life by Superior Judge James L. Allen. Thomas was sentenced for a statutory offense against the daughter of one of the tenants in his apartment house.

In denying probation the judge said that the probation was denied because of evidence admitted during the probation hearing that at one time Edwards had been given a two-year suspended sentence in Long Beach several years ago when he was arrested and charged with indecent exposure.

Complaints about Edwards annoying children in the Anaheim park several years ago were made to the Anaheim police. It was brought out at the trial by Chief of Police John S. Martin, Captain M. F. Andrade and Mrs. Mabel Griffith formerly of the Anaheim police department and others.

Edwards testifying on his own behalf denied statements of witnesses called by the district attorney and denied ever having accosted children or being called to the police station in connection with such charges.

INSTALLATION OF TELETYPE HERE DELAYED

Steps in the process of connecting Santa Ana and Orange county with the state system of police teletypes, recently authorized in the bill signed by Governor Rolph, have been delayed by lack of funds, and local law enforcement officials are awaiting definite word from Sacramento concerning installation.

Sheriff Logan Jackson and Herman Zabel, superintendent of the county identification bureau, were instrumental in having Santa Ana included in the bill to expand the police system of communication by means of the automatic printers. At the present time, San Bernardino and San Diego are the only two cities south of Los Angeles which are part of the system.

When the new bill is put in effect, Santa Ana and Ventura will be two of the new members from Southern California. The local unit, probably to be located in the county jail, will serve all of Orange county. By means of the teletype, officers here will receive daily messages, descriptions, warnings and confidential information from law enforcement centers in Los Angeles and Sacramento. In addition, it will be possible to send messages from here to any or all units in the organization.

SEND PETITIONS FOR NEW H. S. DISTRICT TO STATE BOARD

Petitions seeking withdrawal of the Placentia Union Grammar school district from the Fullerton Union High school district have been checked by County Superintendent of Schools Ray Adkinson and were forwarded yesterday to the state board of education at Sacramento.

The petitions after filing with Adkinson were checked for average daily attendance. Communities included in the Placentia Union Grammar school district are Placentia, Richfield, Commonwealth and Yorba.

Should the petition be approved and establishment of a high school district authorized it is expected that the new district probably will accommodate freshman and sophomore classes, allowing the juniors and seniors to attend Fullerton High school.

Persons Throwing Missiles At Train Are Being Sought

Endangering the lives of passengers in speeding passenger trains by throwing oranges and rocks at the coaches, boys or hoboes who bombarded a northbound Santa Fe train near Tustin Wednesday night were being sought by sheriffs officers and special investigators from the railroad company.

A search of the railroad right-of-way and attempt to locate possible witnesses was made yesterday, following the report of the train crew, which indicated that every car on the train had been hit by the missiles but no serious damage suffered. Fred Johnson, one of the Santa Fe investigators detailed to the case, cited the danger of broken glass and injury to the passengers if the practice were continued.

and Vicente Yorba, both of Anaheim.

Police News

Arrested on May 21 for grand theft, Harry Hansen, Los Angeles truck driver, made $1500 bail yesterday, waived his preliminary hearing, and will go on trial June 21 after pleading not guilty to a charge of stealing a car.

Earl H. Hutchinson, 1927 Custer street, had a .22 revolver stolen from his car in front of his home, he reported to police yesterday.

Mary S. Watkins, 1502 North Ross street, lost a purse containing about $50 in currency Wednesday afternoon in a local five-and-ten cent store. No trace of it has been found by city police.

Julio Aparicio, 46, Mexican laborer working in Richfield, has been lodged in the county jail by Officer Horace Lucy, of Placentia, on a drunk charge.

Five gallons of oil, valued at $2.25, were stolen from a vacant service station owned by John A. Goetz, at 2555 South Main street, by someone who removed a glass from a rear window, it has been reported by Cortez to city police.

Given a parole after serving 39 days of a six month sentence for assault, Floyd Mock, committed by Judge D. J. Dodge of Costa Mesa, was released from county jail Wednesday. His term would have expired August 10.

Mrs. Evelyn Kothe, arrested for a statutory offense in Tustin, was released from the county jail Wednesday after her case was dismissed by Judge D. L. McCharles of Tustin.

Leo A. Province, lease broker of 414 North Broadway, charged with drunk driving in Tustin, has been released from jail after paying a $150 fine to Judge D. L. McCharles.

CITIZENS MAKE STATEMENTS ON PLAY PROGRAM

In an effort to arouse public interest in the Santa Ana summer playground situation, a number of prominent Santa Anans have been contacted by Mrs. W. E. R. Crawford, president of the Santa Ana P. T. A. Council.

The P. T. A. is trying to work out a plan so the playgrounds can be operated and has urged the city council to continue financial support of the program.

Citizens contacted were asked the following question: "Do you think 5000 school children of Santa Ana should have a recreation program for the summer months?" The following answers were given: Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard expressed himself in favor of a recreation program because "it would give the children supervised recreation while otherwise they would play in the streets, and because the operation of the playgrounds would prove to be of great benefit to the police department."

Harriette E. White, Scout executive: "It will cost the city of Santa Ana a great deal more for correction and misdirected energy than it would if they would guide the youngsters in an educational way during the leisure time they will have on their hands."

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools: "All statistics weighing the advancement of child welfare through playground activities show a positive advancement in morale and definite decline in youth problems, the benefits increasing with the facilities and leadership."

Mrs. Dorothy M. Russick, Girl Scout leader: "Play is a necessary factor in the development of the child, who needs not only good play space but trained and efficient leadership with supervision. Traffic dangers on the street must be considered."

George Raymer, secretary of the chamber of commerce: "I am fully persuaded that a recreation program would result in much good to children who are deprived of social activities during the vacation months. In my humble opinion it is vastly better to invest a dollar in the formation of character than to pay taxes for reformation."

Nora M. Allen, head of the probation department: "I would say that an adequately supervised playground would be an excellent thing."

Commander J. B. Tucker of the American Legion: "Children must have an outlet for their activities and for the good of our future society it had better be the right one. It seems that it might be penny wise and pound foolish to spend so much money on education in the winter months and run the change of spoiling anything accomplished along the lines of citizenship for the want of $500 for summer supervision."

Judge Kenneth E. Morrison: "From my experience with young folks of today, I believe they need something to do during their spare time and I feel there is nothing better than properly directed play. If the results of this directed play should save only one young person from getting into trouble it would be a financial saving to the city of Santa Ana of not less than $750 to $1000 a year as well as the saving of a useful citizen."

George D. Newcom, president Santa Ana Rotary club: "It has been conclusively demonstrated in the past that these summer activities under proper direction have been decided deterrents of delinquencies."

W. B. Williams, cashier, First National bank: "You can quote me as being heartily in favor of a recreational program in Santa Ana this summer."

The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, of the First Congregational church: "Santa Ana cannot afford to go through this summer without a recreational program for the children. One child kept from delinquency is worth very much more than the entire cost of the playground program. If there were not public funds available for such work, then there ought to be enough men and women in Santa Ana who are able to contribute the small amount necessary for the maintenance of a recreational program this summer."

Trio Wanted Here On Grand Theft Charge Arrested

Wanted in Santa Ana on charges of burglary and grand theft, three hitchhikers were arrested in El Centro Tuesday and will be brought back to the county jail by deputy sheriffs C. W. Riggle and E. T. Nichols.

He filed charges against J. F. Little, Nellie Mason and Billy Murphy, whom he picked up on the coast highway near Newport Beach on June 1, enroute to San Diego. Allen invited them to spend the night at his beach cottage in Balboa. When he awakened next morning his guests had left, taking his car, a suitcase, gun and $48 in cash.

The automobile was abandoned and found Monday in San Diego. Descriptions of the suspects were sent over police teletypes throughout the state and officers in El Centro arrested them Tuesday. The stolen goods were still in their possession and have been identified by Allen.

Grade School Pupils In Graduation Exercises

RAY ADKINSON GIVES ADDRESS IN EL MODENA

EL MODENA, June 9.—Using the class motto, "It's Up to You," the basis of a brief talk given at the graduation exercises of the El Modena school last night, Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, discussed problems which must be faced and decided by the young graduates as they assume more extensive activities.

The invocation was pronounced by the Rev. James S. Fisk, pastor of the Friends church and the glee club of the seventh and eighth grades sang, "Trees," and "Roses of Picardy." The class will and prophecy were cleverly embodied in a little playlet.

The class song was sung by Miss Audrey Hancock and was the song used by the graduating class of 1912, having been written for this group in 1913 by Mrs. B. M. Culler. The stage was decorated with flowers in the class colors, purple and gold. Diplomas were presented by Mrs. R. W. Jones.

VILLA PARK, June 9.—Graduation exercises for Villa Park school were held Thursday evening at the school hall. The address was given by the Rev. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Orange. His subject was "Making the Most of Life."

A piano solo was given by Miss Betty Brewer; a flute solo by Miss Katherine Sutherland, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mary Spennetta and a reading by Miss Melba Talmadge. After the awarding of the diplomas a skit was put on by the boys of the class. There were 16 graduates this year.

The second June meeting will mark the beginning of the vacation period observed by the organization, when informal evening parties and picnics will take the place of regular programs.

PROGRAM HELD BY VILLA PARK CLUB MEMBERS

ORANGE, June 9.—Members of the Shakespeare club of Villa Park were entertained in the home of Mrs. Elma T. Lee, of East Palm street, Thursday. A noon-day luncheon was served at a T-shaped table, as the club is sometimes called the Thursday club. As the California poppy is the club flower and yellow the club color, yellow, yellow coreopsis and blue cornflowers were used on the table, and the table service was blue china.

The club is now 41 years old and two charter members were present at this meeting, Mrs. H. T. Thomson and Mrs. V. K. Bathgate. After the luncheon a program was given. Mrs. Mathgate and Mrs. H. H. Gardner were on the historical committee and they had made a collection of the pictures of club members which had been taken from time to time. Mrs. Gardner read a paper on the history of the club.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Mrs. Elma T. Lee, and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lee, included Mrs. Mary Morningstar, Mrs. V. K. Bathgate, Mrs. E. H. Adams, Miss Minnie Terrell, Mrs. Ellen Holditch, Mrs. E. M. Lee, Miss Margaret Holditch, Mrs. Anne Peterson, Mrs. H. T. Thomson, Mrs. H. H. Gardner, Mrs. Edyth Thomson, and two guests, Mrs. R. S. Mace, of North Long Beach, who is a grand-daughter of Mrs. Elma Lee, and Mrs. L. S. Thurston, of Pasadena, who was formerly a resident of Villa Park.

The next meeting of the club will be held in September at the call of the president, Mrs. H. T. Thomson.

Altar Society Holds Luncheon

ORANGE, June 9.—Concluding their activities for this season, members of the Altar society of the Holy Family Catholic church met this week in the parish house. A covered dish luncheon was served at noon.

In the group were the Rev. Father Edward J. Riordan, Messrs. J. E. Piesante, Alta Nicholson, Margaret Hamann, H. A. Shurt, Robert Steele, Nick Brook, Frank Colfax Richmond, Mary Nichols, E. D. Bartlett, A. W. Mollica, V. A. Rossiter, J. E. Rios, J. Paine, W. J. Basch and Miss Anna Oehlke.

BETTER TIMES PREDICTED BY CLUB SPEAKER

ORANGE, June 9.—Harry V. Adams of the speakers' bureau of the Security First National bank of Los Angeles spoke on "Looking Forward" at the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday.

Adams stressed a note of optimism as he told of the 14 economic depressions which had occurred in the United States in the past 100 years and he declared the nation will come out of the present depression as it had before.

"We will go out of this depression through the wisdom of the many, we will come out of it as our forefathers did," Adams said. "When a man carried a brick as long as he can, when a man studies as long as he can, when he has put every possible amount of effort in his business, he has done his part toward success and otherwise, he has no right to claim that his reverses have been the result of economic failure."

"Good times, bad times, all times shall pass. This is the philosophy of the Oriental, and these times, too shall pass. Someone once asked Dwight Morrow shortly before his death when the depression would end. Morrow is said to have replied, 'About 90 days before anyone knows it.'"

"Optimistic attitude toward life is of the utmost importance," Adams said, as he told of three sailors who could lift 110 pounds in a normal condition and under hypnosis were told they were weak and could only lift 29 pounds. Still hypnotized their thought was changed, said the speaker, and they were able to lift 146 pounds or about 25 percent more than they could normally.

Adams was accompanied by Frank J. Was, manager of the Security First National bank in Santa Ana.

Jack Clayton was program chairman. Election of officers will be held June 29.

PROGRAM HELD BY VILLA PARK CLUB MEMBERS

ORANGE, June 9.—Members of the Shakespeare club of Villa Park were entertained in the home of Mrs. Elma T. Lee, of East Palm street, Thursday. A noon-day luncheon was served at a T-shaped table, as the club is sometimes called the Thursday club. As the California poppy is the club flower and yellow the club color, yellow, yellow coreopsis and blue cornflowers were used on the table, and the table service was blue china.

The club is now 41 years old and two charter members were present at this meeting, Mrs. H. T. Thomson and Mrs. V. K. Bathgate. After the luncheon a program was given. Mrs. Mathgate and Mrs. H. H. Gardner were on the historical committee and they had made a collection of the pictures of club members which had been taken from time to time. Mrs. Gardner read a paper on the history of the club.

Those present in addition to the hostess, Mrs. Elma T. Lee, and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Lee, included Mrs. Mary Morningstar, Mrs. V. K. Bathgate, Mrs. E. H. Adams, Miss Minnie Terrell, Mrs. Ellen Holditch, Mrs. E. M. Lee, Miss Margaret Holditch, Mrs. Anne Peterson, Mrs. H. T. Thomson, Mrs. H. H. Gardner, Mrs. Edyth Thomson, and two guests, Mrs. R. S. Mace, of North Long Beach, who is a grand-daughter of Mrs. Elma Lee, and Mrs. L. S. Thurston, of Pasadena, who was formerly a resident of Villa Park.

The next meeting of the club will be held in September at the call of the president, Mrs. H. T. Thomson.

JAPAN TOPIC AT FRIENDSHIP TEA AT CHURCH

ORANGE, June 9.—The scarlet flowers of the trumpet vine which clings to the walls of the patio of the First Presbyterian church, furnished a natural decorative note for the friendship tea held there yesterday afternoon. The flaming blossoms were most effective against the dull grey walls and other summer blooms in tall baskets lined the inclosure. Japanese lanterns were festooned above the tea tables.

As Japan was the theme of the tea, bamboo played a prominent part in the decorations and a bridge such as those seen in Japanese gardens connected the small patio with the larger one. Mrs. James Harlow, of Whittier, who has traveled extensively in Japan and China, told of a visit to the former country.

Mrs. Barlow is the house guest of Miss Sue Scarritt, and Miss Flo Scarritt, told of staying at a Japanese hotel which was patronized by Japanese people only. She described the exquisite cleanliness of the rooms.

The pastor of the Japanese Presbyterian church at Westminster, the Rev. Kenji Kikuchi, was unable to be present, as it was announced a baby daughter had arrived in the home yesterday morning.

Three little Japanese maids, of Westminster, Chiyoko Miyawaki, Reiko Kikuchi and Emiko Furuta, sang several Japanese songs, the two latter a duet and the first named, "Night Time Song." The trio made a charming picture in their rich and colorful costumes, bowing nearly to the floor as they were presented to the audience by Hisako Masuda, they captivated their audience with their graceful gestures and gentle manners.

Presiding at the four tea tables were Mrs. Olive French, Mrs. Carl Pister, Mrs. Frank Higgins, Mrs. J. J. Vernon, of Santa Ana, and Mrs. E. H. Smith. The program was arranged by Mrs. C. E. Wood, who headed the hostess committee. Decorations were in charge of Mrs. Donald Smiley and Mrs. Louis DeLong and Mrs. Olive French comprised the refreshments committee serving rice cakes with tea.

The June committee included Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Logan Jackson, Mrs. J. J. Vernon, Mrs. Northrup Ellis, Mrs. W. H. Higgins, Miss Fernie Sumner, Miss Nita Walton, Miss Sue Scarritt, Mrs. Anna Linnertz, Mrs. James Smith, Mrs. Roy Tulene, Mrs. Carrie Balesch, Mrs. Frank V. Maroney, Mrs. Pearl Inge, Mrs. J. J. Skuse, Mrs. Burr Talbert, Mrs. Dan Gruwell, Mrs. Olive French, Mrs. E. C. Frevert, Mrs. Donald Smiley, Mrs. W. H. Flippen, Mrs. H. A. Brown, Mrs. C. E. Smiley, Mrs. Harold Pee, Mrs. Martha Newby, Mrs. Florence Beale, Mrs. Sarah Dutton, Mrs. Harold Shull, Mrs. W. P. Dewes, Mrs. Carl Pister, Mrs. Ethel Clark, Mrs. George Baier, Mrs. Evelyn Campbell, Mrs. H. M. Gail, Mrs. Louis DeLong, Mrs. Alfred Trapp and Mrs. Jacob Ditchey.

111 GRADUATES GET DIPLOMAS AT EXERCISES

ORANGE, June 9.—Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of Santa Ana city schools, was the speaker last night at the graduation exercises of the Intermediate school. Henderson spoke on "What Attitudes and Social Qualities Are Needed in Citizens to Help Solve Our Problems?"

The speaker traced the varying educational periods of America and stressed the need of a shift in the emphasis on the part of educational functions in a new social order which is confronted with adjusting mechanical freedom to the new labor it has brought about. We may expect educational expansion, rather than retrenchment, Henderson pointed out.

The invocation was given by the Rev. H. F. Sheerer, and diplomas were presented to 111 graduates by C. I. Thomas, principal of the school. Music was furnished by the Boys' and Girls' Glee clubs.

Miss manager; Eleanor Shadowen, baseball manager; Helen Volberding, program chairman.

The oath of office taken by each incoming officer was read by Phoebe Wansley.

During the evening, letters were awarded Miss Lois Reeves, high point student, receiving two stars in addition to the two she had already won. Miss Grace Robertson made the awards.

Outstanding are a project on a California orchard, which has a real irrigation system and was made by Jack Milman; a Mexican farm house by Betty West; the Great Seal of California by Roberta McKnight; Mission San Fernando by Harley Babcock; a miniature radio station by Lyndon Carman; a moving picture on the history of California by Kenneth Cliphant; a relief map by Jack Gardner; a wall hanging of a mission by Marie Johnson; a pillow of the Bear Flag by Olga May Atchley; and three flags, the Mexican, Spanish and Bear Flags, sewed on a gray background by Genevieve Glover.

The maps were on land grants in California, by Jane King; California's five points of interest by Merle Morris; trails of early explorers by Stanley Goode and John Mathews; products of California by Hazel Schwarm and Ruth Greenwald; California Missions by Bill Lamm; and a map of historical places by Loren Wagner.

Notebooks were on the impressions of tourists by Ruth Frandsen; history of California by La Vonne Frandsen; birds of California by Mary Henders; California National parks by Bluma Hurwitz; missions of California by Edward Velarde; and one on California Missions by Lorraine Sender. One of the most attractive projects in this group was an embroidered map of California by Catherine Eklund.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

NEW BOOKS IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

BY VERA RAMSEY

Spy stories can nearly always be counted upon to furnish a full quota of thrills. "The Dark Invader," by Captain von Rintelen (Franz Rintelen von Kleist) is no exception, for the war-time reminiscences of this German naval intelligence officer tells many exciting adventures.

This book gives a remarkable close-up of some of the most decisive secret service activities of the war captain. Von Rintelen was one of Germany's master "spies" during the World War. In 1915 he was at the head of a network of German agents in the United States. By a series of exceedingly clever stratagems, he was able to check the flow of munitions from big American industrialists to the Allies. It was he who organized a secret band of German sympathizers who put bombs in munitions ships and ferried strikes among the dockers. He tells also of being in touch with ex-President Huerta of Mexico, in the hope of embroiling that country and the United States, and so diverting American attention from the war in Europe.

Captain von Rintelen was even-

Come over to the
SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Do you want to feel always at your best? To meet each day with fresh vitality? You can. For when you're healthy, you're happy.

A delicious cereal provides the "bulk" that is so important in overcoming common constipation. Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also supplies vitamin B to further aid regular habits. In addition, ALL-BRAN is twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. What a relief to enjoy an appetizing cereal instead of taking patent medicines.

tually captured by the English, having been called back to Germany by a fake cable. However, when America entered the war, he was again sent to the United States where he was sentenced to five years' imprisonment. The book ends with prison experiences.

Many autobiographies claim to be sensational. Here is one written with restraint, without a trace of rancor and with considerable humor by a man who played a leading part in a world ablaze with sensation.

"Adventures of Ideas," by Alfred North Whitehead, is a brilliant history of the human race from the point of view of mankind's changing ideas.

Professor Whitehead begins by pointing out a major difference in all theorizing on society between the present and ancient times. The ancient philosophers accepted human slavery as an inescapable premise of civilization. No thinker of today will accept slavery as a necessity. Here is a vital and revolutionary change in ideas, in our basic thought on man and society. It is in such changes and victories of ideas that Professor Whitehead sees clues to a justification and explanation of human life.

The book is divided into four parts. The first is sociological, which gives an account of the history of ideas working in society. The cosmological treats of the theological ideas as bases for religion. Third is the philosophical which concerns itself with the more particular problems and debates of the philosophers. The last division is given the heading of civilization. It is a discussion of the highest aims of the human spirit, of the desire for perfection.

Professor Whitehead writes upon this subject with imagination and eloquence. This is a stimulating and fascinating book for all who have faith and interest in ideas.

Barbara Dale came to Hollywood in the days of the silent films when looks meant more than anything else. She was a film actress, but she knew socially most of the stars of the screen and became vitally interested in their problem and studied from a scientific point of view. Her findings are given to us in her book, "Health, Beauty and Charm."

When the craze for slenderness came along, it brought a good many fads. The girls of the screen were spoiling their looks and their health by queer starvation diets. Something had to be done and in Barbara Dale's home was called a meeting attended by executives of the film world, producers, directors and physicians. From this evolved the Barbara Dale Twenty Day Reducing Diet worked out on common sense lines. Because Miss Dale had been instrumental in bringing it about, the group gave it her name. It became immediately successful and many stars of the screen have adopted it.

For twelve years Barbara Dale was personal advisor in health and beauty to these lovely women. She is not giving to a wider audience the many valuable secrets that she has used with so much success in Hollywood. More than any one thing the motion pictures have made American women, all women, beauty conscious. They see the heroines of the screen and slender and lovely and they ask, "How do they do it?" The answer is found in this book.

In addition to her work in Hollywood, Barbara Dale gives radio talks which are followed by thousands of women. "Health, Beauty and Charm" was written for all those who have asked her for the secrets of her successful treatments. Her system is simple, practicable, successful. Any woman can follow and benefit from it.

HOOKS and SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Harry Hellmann, that old Tiger outfielder who rivaled Ty Cobb for popularity in the Motor City, is playing sandlot baseball in Detroit. Bobby Veach, one of the Tigers, played in the same league last year. Harry hit for the Red Sox last year, but not so hot. Bob Kline, that Red Sox pitcher, is so big that the boys have nicknamed him "King Kong."

MEOW!

It may have been your privilege at one time or another to peer upon the antics of two unacquainted cats as they went about the business of seeking to destroy each other. . . such is the beautiful bond of love 'twixt our two felines—Mrs. Willis Moody and Miss Jacobs.

The gals' predatory intentions toward each other probably goes back to the elemental fact that both are Californians. . . and you can't have two queens, you know yourself, August. . . one of them has got to be a first-vice-president-queen.

LAST YEAR'S AFFAIR

Last year Mrs. Willis Moody moved up overseas. . . and you can't have two queens, you know yourself, August. . . one of them has got to be a first-vice-president-queen.

WALTER JOHNSON IS NAMED CLEVELAND CLUB MANAGER

CLEVELAND, June 9.—(UP)—Walter Johnson, the "Big Train" of baseball, who managed the Washington Senators for two years, was named today as manager of the Cleveland Indians to replace Roger Peckinpaugh.

INCREASE SIZE OF BOWL TRACK TO FIFTH-MILE

With a large track in prospect, making the size the regulation one-fifth mile, Orange county racing fans will have a chance to see what can be done in the way of new records at the Santa Ana Municipal bowl tomorrow night, when 50 racing professionals will get under way.

Some of the greatest riders in the game have entered and new imported racing "jobs" will be on hand but the American machines will be ready to put up a battle against the invasion of English motors which many are now using.

The British mounts are of 30-50 cubic inch capacity with overhead valves. They have compression ratios as high as 14 to 1 and run on a mixture of alcohol and benzene for fuel. Many of them develop 37 brake horse power and turn over as high as 6000 revolutions a minute. They weigh about 225 pounds complete and are capable of 120 miles an hour on a straightaway course. For short tracks they are geared about 9 to 1 and with that gearing develop about 70 miles-an-hour straightaway speed.

The miniature racing cars are again put on an exhibition and the daring stunt man, Jack Emery, will ride through a flaming board wall.

MRS. ROBINSON IS LOW IN S. A. GOLF

Three down to par, Mrs. L. H. Robinson finished first in Class A match play at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday. Mrs. Osma Pireley, four down, was second, and Mrs. C. H. Chapman and Mrs. C. V. Doty, six down, third.

Other results: Class B—Mrs. R. G. Cartwright, 5 down; Mrs. E. E. Pireley, 6 down; Mrs. R. D. Cronshaw, 9 down; Class C—Mrs. T. R. Griffith Jr., even; Miss Nan Mead, 3 down; Mrs. E. H. Guthrie and Mrs. Natt Neff, 9 down.

HAIL BAER AS 'NEW DEMPSEY' Shakeup S. A. Lineup, Batting Order

STARS HOPE TO END SLUMP AT BOWL TONIGHT

Back on their home plot, with a drastically rearranged batting order and a slightly revamped lineup, Santa Ana's struggling Stars tonight hope to smash their long sustained losing streak at the expense of one of the outstanding clubs in the National league, Olive's powerful Packers.

Manager "Eeny" Wilcox will send young Wilson Seacord to the mound, employ the veteran "Rory" Merrill in right field, instead of "Chub" Sears, and drop far down in the swinging rotation both Rod Ballard and George Preble who are hitting below their natural gait.

Santa Ana's "depression" has the Stars' management bewildered. The club wasn't winning earlier in the season because its pitching wasn't proficient, the mound staff being unable to hold a lead no matter how large. Games were lost to Huntington Beach and Torrance when the Stars made 13 and 9 runs, respectively. But as soon as Joe Cornelius showed signs of regaining his old form, the Santa Ana batsmen went into a slump from which they have produced only four runs in the last three games when any kind of hitting would have yielded victories.

Ordinarily Olive isn't a team that permits its opposition much stickwork either, but Santa Ana drove Rudy Heman from the box early in the year and Wilcox thinks his men may recover their hitting eyes against him here. The big Packer slow-ball specialist usually is dynamite to batting averages, however, so a sixth successive setback for the lowly Santa Ana contingent is quite possible.

Seacord, a junior at Tustin high school, broke into the league against Huntington Beach last week. He did quite well, showing enough to decide Wilcox to give him another chance as a starting gunner.

Bridgman Ballard, who missed the game at Whittier Tuesday because he was on his honeymoon, will be back in center field. Otherwise the Santa Ana lineup will be the same except for the substitution of Merrill for Sears. Merrill has been hitting well. Sears has been in a slump, and Wilcox thinks a brief spell on the bench may break it up.

Bill Cole joins Packers. Olive brings her usual lineup but an added personage in the person of colorful "Big Bill" Cole, who for many years an esteemed Santa Ana player and coach. Cole joined the Olivemen Tuesday, and will be on the lines here. The big fellow has quite a reputation as a pitcher-batter, and peculiarly enough his first assignment against a Santa Ana club not only will pit him against a rookie pitcher but also one of his own proteges from Tustin H. where Cole is coach.

Seacord's three toughest hurdles—aside from Cole—will be Third Baseman Ora Sands, a "wood-chopping" hitter, who has accumulated a .489 average and is leading the league; Catcher "Hen" Thiery, .429, and Pitcher Heman, .390. The other Packers boast only modest averages.

Other league games tonight: Westminster at Huntington Beach; Fullerton at Torrance; Whittier at Anaheim. The Westminster-Huntington Beach affair has an important bearing on second place. The standings:

With identical averages of .391, infielders Ed Daley and Tommy Young are leading the Santa Ana club in hitting after 11 National Night league games. Manager "Eeny" Wilcox, catcher, is third with .358. Shortstop "Memphis" Hill, .344, is the only other regular over .300. The averages:

THE CALIFORNIA BAER STALKS HIS PREY

Max Schmeling, pride of Germany, goes down for the count of nine in the 10th round of his New York heavyweight battle with Max Baer, Livermore, California, "butcher boy." The fight, scheduled to go 15 rounds, was stopped shortly after this knockdown, and Baer was given the decision on a technical knockout. NEA telephoto, transmitted by wire from New York to Los Angeles, and then rushed to The Register by airmail and fast trains.

EXULTANT BAER ASKS FOR 'FAG' AFTER VICTORY

By JACK CUDDY

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 9.—(UP)—

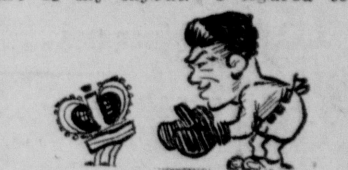

Maxie Baer, the perspiring California boy with the swollen nose, slouched on a stool beside Babe Ruth's locker in Yankee stadium dressing room last night and explained that "brains and smart fighting" were largely responsible for his technical knockout over Max Schmeling.

After seeing Baer explode on the German heavyweight's chin a straight right that might have knocked the spire off the Chrysler building, this statement was most unexpected. Besides, the boxing writers had accused Baer of everything except brains.

While the rest of the room was given over to wild rejoicing, reminiscent of a celebration after a Yankee world series game, Maxie, still in his trunks, told of his ringcraft.

Says He "Coasted"

"I guess you figured I was blowing up after the third round," he said. "Well that was just part of my layout. I figured to try for a knockout early. You saw the way I went after him in the opening rounds. I couldn't get in, so, following my plan, I just laid back and coasted along, letting Schmeling fight himself out. When I figured he was pretty tired, I let him have it. That's all there was to it. Just smart fighting."

Maxie, who is a handsome 23-year-old with a statuesque, sun-bronzed body, was almost as happy that Schmeling hadn't "mussed me up much" as he was at beating him. His nose was swollen and cut slightly on the inside. That and an injured knuckle on the right hand were his only battle marks.

Cigarette First Request

The first thing Maxie wanted, when he was swept into the room with a flying wedge of policemen and handlers, was a cigarette. Obtaining that, he congratulated himself on his victory. "I did not recover," Baer punches hard. "I was very hot out there under the big lights, but I thought I was winning when it happened. He was slightly bruised about the eyes, and had a large welt on his forehead just above the bridge of his nose."

His manager, Joe Jacobs, was depressed. "My fighter wasn't himself," he exclaimed. "He had the fight almost in his hands, but after the fourth or fifth round he kept telling me he was tired. Maybe it was the heat. He couldn't seem to get going."

Stagg Guest Of 300 Former Maroon Players

Stagg was the guest of honor at the annual banquet of the Order of "C". The members, presented the veteran coach with a volume containing 400 personal letters of appreciation from football lettermen whom Stagg had coached. Retired on reaching the age of 70, Stagg has taken a coaching position with the College of the Pacific at Stockton, Cal.

There was only one undefeated team left in the Santa Ana Night Baseball league today—and it was the Santa Ana Elks.

Although idle last night, the B. P. C. E. advanced into undisputed possession of first place when the United Presbyterians, previously untamed, were knocked over by Bachman's garage, 7-6, at the Municipal Bowl.

Far behind in the early reckoning after Bachman's had rolled up four runs in the first inning and three more in the third, the U. P. club made a desperate bid for honors in the last inning. Beal's home run accounted for three runs, and a flying score was on base when Pitcher Bill Humphrey finally retired the side by striking out Finley.

Earlier in the evening, Bowl fans witnessed the session's first pitching classic—a no-hit, no-run game by the veteran First National Bank pitcher, bald Gene Hitt. Pitching like he could eight years ago, Hitt fanned 15 of Weber Bakers in 7 innings. He walked two.

Bettors Arrested

LOS ANGELES, June 9.—(UP)

Two officials and approximately 25 players and option sellers of the Beverly-Fairfax dog racing club were arrested last night on charges of violating the state racing law, in a raid directed by the district attorney's office.

Baer Holds Celebration Until Dawn

NEW YORK, June 9.—(UP)—Max Baer celebrated his victory over Max Schmeling until dawn today.

Questions about reports of an impending marriage to June Knight, Broadway showgirl, brought an admission that "things are pretty serious" but that he was still married. Anil Hoffman, his manager, said he was considering a proposal for a barnstorming tour with Jack Dempsey. "We've got bids from Dayton, O., and other places in the Midwest and probably will do a short tour beginning in a week or so."

ARMOUR THREE OVER PAR BUT RETAINS LEAD

GLENVIEW, Ill., June 9.—(UP)

The field in the National Open championship was still pursuing Tommy Armour, the Scottish-American professional who is partially blind in his left eye, as the second round neared its finish late today.

Armour, representing the Medinah Country club of Chicago, slipped a trifle today, and took a 75, three over par, but apparently was safely in front with a 143 for 36 holes.

Armour started the day with a five stroke lead after yesterday's record-breaking 68, four under par.

Second round scores and the 36-hole, two day totals:

Walter Kozak, Flushing, N. Y.	37-40-77-153
Emil F. Loeffler, Jr., Oakmont, Pa.	39-37-76-156
Joe Paletti, Wilmette, Ill.	37-43-80-158
Maunroe O'Connor, Belleville, N. J.	41-38-79-158
W. G. Gordon, Waterloo, Ia.	38-39-77-156
Robert Strauss, Cincinnati	35-40-75-158
Francis A. Marzolf, Columbus, O.	37-38-75-157
L. M. J. Wilcox, Norfolk, Neb.	42-41-83-157
Ralph Guidish, St. Louis, Mo.	33-38-71-147
Henri Cluci, Flushing, N. Y.	37-41-78-152
K. Y. Laffoon, Denver, Colo.	37-41-78-152
Brookline, Conn. Gables, Fla.	35-35-70-144
MacDonald Smith, Nashville, Tenn.	35-37-72-142
Jack Thompson, Youngstown, Ohio	38-39-77-157

they had to sweat for it. Even the second balcony birds shed coats and ties in the hot and sticky night air. It was little short of torture for ringers in the glare of the ring arc lights.

The crowd was stunned by the outcome and had reason to be. Twenty-three of the 26 boxing writers questioned by the United Press had picked Schmeling to win, many by a knockout; the betting odds were 13 to 5 in favor of the German and Baer's record was studded with less than flattering results while Schmeling was a former champion.

Baer Well Ahead

Although most score cards showed a nearly even distribution of rounds won, Baer's rounds were won by mere decisive margins. Baer repeatedly blasted the German with rights to the head, and only once, in the first round, did Schmeling connect with a real blow. The tip-off came in the ninth round when Baer swarmed all over Schmeling. Repeatedly the Californian drove Schmeling to the ropes with rights and lefts to the head. Schmeling seemed tired when he came to his corner and complained of the heat.

The fight was a tremendous success for Dempsey who reported gross receipts of $239,000. While he will never announce the split, it was probable his cut would be well over $50,000.

Neither Schmeling nor his little manager, Joe Jacobs, offered any semblance of alibi.

"It's the game," Schmeling said. "Max just couldn't get going," was Jacobs' comment.

Baers camp was a cluster of "I-told-you-so's" from both the fighter and his easy-going manager.

The significance, of course, is that Baer is now in line for a title fight with the winner of the June 29 bout between Champion Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Salad:
12 stalks fresh asparagus
2 medium sized tomatoes
1 stuffed egg
Mineral oil mayonnaise
1 square of Rye-krisp
Clear tea, no sugar
Calory total, 300.

Do you know that green peas, cooked with mint, then chilled and combined with lettuce hearts and chilled sliced tomatoes and buttermilk mayonnaise makes a swell-elegant salad? Try it and see.

Have you tried the buttermilk mayonnaise, yet? Perhaps you've mislaid the recipe or haven't seen it. This is how it is made.

Chill all ingredients, as well as the bowl and whip. For two quarts of mayonnaise put five egg yolks in the bowl (tomorrow I'll tell you how to use up the whites to good advantage) with a teaspoonful of dry mustard and one each of salt and sugar. Whip to mix, then start dripping the oil s-l-o-w-l-y, ever so slowly, for if you drip this bulk salad oil too fast it is sure to curdle on you, and then, oh, what a mess!

Well, let's get back to our mixing. After the first cup of oil is in and thickening under way, you may add the oil a little faster, and with it an occasional spoonful of vinegar. When you have a trifle over a quart of oil worked in, get out the bottle of ice-cold buttermilk and add it very slowly and carefully, whipping constantly. The whole quart will work in, then whip in about two table-spoonfuls of rosy paprika, taste and add whatever more salt the dressing needs and pour it into quart jars. Do not keep this mayonnaise where it can freeze. It will separate, due to the buttermilk.

In comparison with straight oil mayonnaise, this buttermilk mayonnaise, of mine has exactly one-half the calories the all-oil kind has... that's something to crow about, if you ask me!

TODAY'S RECIPE

Moulded Vegetable Salad

1 small can tomato sauce
2 cups water
1 envelope of dry gelatine
1-4 cup cold water
6 hard cooked eggs
24 stalks of fresh asparagus
1-2 cups fresh cooked green peas
1-4 cup finely shredded celery heart
1 green onion, minced fine
1 tablespoon minced parsley
Salt, pepper, cayenne to taste

Add cold water to the can of tomato sauce, stir well and season with lemon juice, salt and pepper.

Soften the gelatine in the quarter-cup of water, then set it in a pan of hot water to dissolve.

Rinse a mould in cold water, cut the eggs in slices, dip each slice in gelatine and press firmly against the mould. Add the rest of gelatine to the tomato part. Stir up and let stand until it begins to jelly, then pour it over the named vegetables, daintily arranged in the egg-lined mould. Chill until firm, cut in slices and serve with the buttermilk mayonnaise.

This salad and its 3 tbsps. of mayonnaise have a calory value of 250 per serving. The mould makes 8 large servings.

Saturday: My favorite pineapple pudding.

CIVIC BODY SEEKS LOWER INSURANCE

YORBA LINDA, June 9. — A change in the districting of Yorba Linda for fire zone is to be considered, after a report back by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce. President P. J. Ton appointed Fire Chief Willis, E. R. Walker and A. Caspart to investigate, with the object in view of reducing insurance rates with proper district formation. The chamber met in regular session Wednesday at Young's cafe. Other items of business included a report by James Small on the stop signs; reports by George Kellogg on the last meeting of Imperial Highway association at Gardena, and the next meeting at Milpitas field, June 30, and a report by Walker on the reasons the rates of insurance have not been lowered, and that Yorba Linda remains in 10th class fire district with the new truck, equipment and the fire crews.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

MORGAN
The boys backstage began to get cold feet on the Morgan investigation a few days back.

Those who were chuckling at the predicament of the country's leading financial firm began to waver their heads doubtfully. They whispered to each other that it would be a bad thing for the country if faith in the largest banking house was destroyed. They thought it was time to call a halt. Even Professor Pecora began to talk about needing a long rest.

A democratic leader dared to assert on the floor of the senate that if we tear down our ideals we will live to regret it.

The reason for this sudden caution probably was the fact that certain liberals were then secretly at work to make the investigation sordid.

Prime mover in the scheme was Senator Culligan. He called in an expert New York financial lawyer. Together they worked out a resolution expanding the scope of the inquiry. The definite objective would be to expose New York control over national money and industry. The purpose would be to write legislation altering our entire financial and industrial setup. The public was not aware of it, but the conservatives were when they started talking about easing up.

The proposition got along so far that it was submitted to Mr. Roosevelt. One of his closest advisers called in the New York attorney who was working with Culligan. They went over the matter and later the attorney saw the President.

The liberal crowd did not intend to oust Pecora. They thought he was doing a fine job. They believed he could do a better one if given $100,000 and free subpoena access to the books of all banks, brokerage houses and corporations.

Part of the plan also called for holding up the Glass bank bill. The boys believe that after they got through more legislation than the Glass bill will be needed to plug the holes.

Wall street would like that part of it. A bird in the bush is worth two in the hand like the Glass bill.

Morgan was really sorry when the investigation was over. He had a great time talking to people he never met before—senators, reporters, photographers and policemen. He was like a man from Kansas visiting the aquarium for the first time.

One dull session Morgan went over to the press table to gab with the reporters. He was obviously pleased the way the investigation was going. Someone suggested the publicity he was getting might not be so bad for him. At least it was breaking down the popular idea that he was a mysterious unseen ogre. The point was made that it was a good stunt for him to have taken that midget on his knee.

"Oh—oh," said Morgan slyly. "It's time for me to leave when you mention that."

ADJOURNMENT

Mr. Roosevelt did everything but fumigate the Capitol trying to get congress out of town this week. He was excited particularly because the boys were getting out from under his thumb. He realized this was the beginning of the end of blind congressional loyalty. He did not want that idea to get abroad. It might hurt business confidence if he were to be involved in the usual presidential bickerings with congress.

That is one reason why he was so anxious to compromise backstage on the various points in dispute.

Word was passed along to the boys in congress that the reason they had to adjourn was that the World Economic Conference was convening Monday.

That was an absurd excuse. No body expects the conference to do anything for three weeks. A few days more for congress would make no difference. It might make some difference on the war debt issue. Installments are due next Thursday.

If the truth were known, that fact probably has more to do with Mr. Roosevelt's haste than anything else.

FORESTRY

There appeared to be nothing more behind this Howe toilet-kit case than some very bad management and a half dozen errors of judgment.

No one connected with it was entitled to any bouquets, but the facts were not as bad as they sounded. Possibly $100,000 was lost to the government because everyone was in such a hurry to get the forestry movement going.

The inefficiency was comparable to anything that has happened in the past. Centralized authority was lacking. Political opponents will be able to harass the administration on the point for the next four years.

The truth is that it was not nearly so inefficient as the job done on the bank openings, but the facts about that never got out.

OUTLOOK

The administration's private preliminary figures indicate business is holding up well beyond the seasonal trend.

The two figures they are watching closest are showing up well. They are department store sales and factory employment. These indicate the present and future consuming market. Production will follow these, so no one pays any attention to it any more.

The indications are that retail trade maintained itself nationally the last week in May and the first week in June. Factory employment showed some increase in the larger centers.

NOTES

The one thing the Morgans privately wanted was an assurance that their competitors would be fired the same as they were. . . . They went back to New York believing they had such an assurance. . . . Democrats and republicans broke fairly even on the Morgan expose. . . . There were about the same number of men involved from both political parties and they held about the same ranks. . . . Dr. Leo Wolman, P.H.D., Columbia, will join the brain trust family to help in the Industrial Control administration. . . . His record is decidedly to the left. . . . He was once attorney for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. . . . The man who has pushed the administration along toward re-financing of the Liberty Bond issues is Senator Bone of Washington. . . . It can be done before October. . . . Legal authorities agree the President is not required to act during legal periods but may call in the bonds any time on six months' notice. . . . That will save some money.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

VICTORIES

New York is having a quiet important Washington fronts in glint over its victories on several fronts.

First, the baby bond plan of government financing has been laid out with lilies. . . . Second, the Vandenberg deposit insurance project has been stepped on by the administration. This figures to kill the whole Glass banking bill so far as the current session of congress is concerned. The feeling is strong here that the state bank defenders will never let it pass without some such provision. Local bankers are so gleeful about this development they may burst into song at any minute. . . . Third, the proposal to abolish consolidated income tax return for corporate groups has been sidetracked in favor of a trifling quarter of one per cent increase on the charge for such returns. That's a lifesaver for a flock of big holding companies. . . . Fourth, the sales tax—favored almost unanimously by financial New York—is believed to be gaining ground in congress.

The New York influence on these matters has been exerted very subtly. There has been no direct lobbying that you could call by that name. But discreet "advice" has been whispered in the ears of congressmen who seemed in doubt, and the conservative elements in the administration have been given the strongest kind of moral support. . . . Treasury Secretary Woodin has been a big help. You may hear rumors of a private "understanding" between him and Wall street. They are absolutely unjustified. All that was needed was to encourage his natural inclinations. The baby bonds would have hurt the savings banks and to a lesser extent the commercial banks. The deposit insurance provision would have raised hob with plans for unifying the banking system. He was reminded of these factors and responded as expected in his own judgment.

DOUGLAS

Budget Director Lewis Douglas was also in sympathy with the New York attitude about these policies, and his opinions carry weight. It is understood here that the senate is suspicious of him as being too close to Wall street. He is rated as having no path of roses to the cabinet if Woodin should resign.

BANKS

The New York banks had it all figured out how to get around the Vandenberg amendment if it had gone through. The insurance fund was to have been raised by direct levies against accounts of less than $2500. Several banks actually had announcements printed and ready to send out that longer acceptable. That would have let them out of contributing to the fund and they would not have minded losing the small business.

National banks are co-operating with the government by using the note issue privilege much more freely. Circulation of National bank currency has increased sharply in the past few weeks.

HARRIMAN

An R. F. C. loan to the Harri-man bank to pay off 50 per cent of deposits was practically set a week ago. Then it occurred to the lawyers who are really running the bank's affairs that something should be tacked on to the loan to meet expenses of contesting lawsuits—especially the suit to undo the merger with the Liberty National. The R. F. C. couldn't see it. That's why the depositors still haven't been paid a nickel. Deposits below $2500 were no

TAMMANY
New York democrats will be treated to a surprise. According to intimates of John McCoony, the powerful Brooklyn boss, Alderman "Tommy" Ryan is about to receive the choice Federal plum of appraiser of the port.

This is no help and comfort for Tammany Hall, because Ryan recently has been designated privately as crown prince for the Brooklyn leadership by McCoony himself. Power piles up on that side of the river.

BRITAIN

Financial leaders here have figures to show that there is more money on deposit in English banks today than there has ever been before.

London financial circles say that a great part of this money is "bad" (Continued on Page 22)

County Officers Get Big Still And Liquor In Raid

COSTA MESA SANITARIUM JAIL: BOOZE IS CONFISCATED

One of the biggest liquor captures in Orange county for many months was made by the sheriff's office yesterday afternoon when Sheriff Logan Jackson and his deputies arrested Henry A. Bowling, of Costa Mesa, and confiscated a large 100-gallon double still, 365 gallons of mash, and smaller quantities of liquor and alcohol. The stilling outfit was found in a large chicken house in the rear of the Bowling home at 2045 Tustin avenue, Costa Mesa. The owner had just padlocked the house as sheriff's officers arrived and admitted that he had been operating for several months, officers reported.

Bowling, a plumber, had built the still himself. It was reported to be complete in every detail. In addition to the still, officers found seven 52-gallon barrels of mash, five gallons of alcohol, 20 gallons of whiskey, a box of samples, and other equipment.

At the time of the raid, the plant was not actually distilling liquor but was being washed out with water preparatory to starting work again. Bowling at first claimed he was merely distilling water. He will be prosecuted under the Jones law, a state act, on a charge of owning and operating a still.

The still and equipment was transferred to the county jail, where it must be held for 30 days, and then destroyed. The liquor will be turned into the sewer, officers said.

KENTUCKIANS GET SETTLED IN C.C.C. CAMP

"Who said it was hot in California?"

That seems to be the theme song of 219 Kentucky boys in the Citizens' Conservation Camp in Santiago canyon.

"Yes, suh," one of the boys said, "it's right nice up heah. But it sho' gets cold nights. Why, last night I had four blankets and almost froze, but that was because I didn't know how to make my bed and a couple of 'em fell off. I'll be warm, though, tonight; one of the army boys showed me how to make my bed this morning."

The camp, originally located in Santa Ana canyon, has been transferred to Santiago canyon. It accommodates 219 Kentucky boys enlisted in the Civilian Conservation Corps, four army officers and four enlisted men.

Another camp has been located in San Juan Canyon and accommodates boys from Indiana. In addition to the army detachment in charge of the camp.

Grand Adventure

The boys in the camp do not look at enlistment in the conservation corps as depression relief. They look at the trip, life in the camp and the job ahead as a grand adventure.

One boy expressed the attitude of the entire camp. He said, "Why, mister, I am making big money. I haven't got any cash yet, but I figure the trip out here is worth a couple of hundred dollars to me. The experience I won't get out here is worth some more money besides the pay I get and send home to the folks."

That boy was not talking for publication. He did not know that he was talking to a reporter but was talking to "home folks" visiting the camp.

Asked about the meals, he said: "We are getting pretty good meals. Of course they are not like we got in Fort Knox, where we were held for training, but they are good. The cooks are doing the best they can. You see, the camp is only two days old, and all the supplies are not here yet. When they get here, the head cook says, we will have some real feeds. I'm trying out for cook, and maybe, if I make good, in the next six months I can learn to be a cook. Our head cook is a soldier, and, boy, he is plenty good."

Plan Recreation

The camp is under canvas and built in a square. Lumber is arriving daily, and carpenters in the corps are being started on the job of laying floors in every tent.

Another crew of workers is clearing the center of the camp and preparing to build a baseball diamond. Until all accommodations are installed, the men will be kept at work on construction work about the camp. After that is finished they will be turned over to the rangers for work in the national forest.

The camp is under command of Capt. S. C. Whipple of the Engineer Corps. Other officers in the camp are Lieutenant Mueller, Quartermaster Reserve; Lieutenant Parry, Field Artillery Reserve, and Lieutenant Rich, Medical Reserve. Lieutenant Rich is also medical officer for the camp in San Juan Canyon. Four enlisted men from the regular army are also attached to the camp.

The army officers and enlisted men have charge of the camp and the men while they are in camp, as the army has the task of housing and feeding them at all times and caring for their health.

Life in the camp is not all work and no play. The men only work five eight-hour days each week. After work hours and on

U. S. Camp Gives New Hope to Jobless Young Women

Summer camps for homeless and jobless unmarried young women may dot the country if the experimental camp being sponsored by Mrs. Franklin D. CLEVELAND FOREST CLOSED TO SMOKING AND FIREWORKS

Effective tomorrow, June 10, no smoking will be permitted in the Cleveland National Forest, it was announced today by the United States Forest Service.

In order to safeguard the interests of the people by protecting the valuable watershed, made more inflammable by drying weather, the usual restrictions on smoking will go into effect.

Smoking will be permitted only at places of habitation or designated camp grounds. The discharge of any kind of fireworks is now prohibited within the boundaries of the forest.

Heavy Bean Crop For Talbert Seen

TALBERT, June 9. — With the rain gauge at the Bob Harper local store showing less rain than last year, when 13.84 inches were recorded, local bean crops are looking even better than they did last season, ranchers report. Rain for this season in Talbert is given at 9.35 inches.

The majority of local ranchers took the precaution to plant from 25 to 30 pounds more seed to the acre, allowing for worms and blights which might decrease the crop.

Announcement Made Of June Marriage In East

Mr. and Mrs. George D. Newcom, 1517 North Main street, today made announcement of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Margaret Rae Newcom to George For of Iowa, an event which occurred on June 1, at the Highland Park Presbyterian church of Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Frances Shaw, a school friend of the bride, played organ numbers for the ceremony, "Mendelssohn's Spring Song," "O, Promise Me" and "Lohengrin's Wedding March."

Attending the couple as best man and matron of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Goldsberry, cousins of the bridegroom.

The new Mrs. For has been a summer visitor in Santa Ana several times since her parents established their home in this city, one year coming by plane from Salt Lake City. She is a graduate of North High school and of Des Moines University. Des Moines, Iowa, and has been a teacher of home economics in the Baxter high school.

Mr. For attended State Teachers' College in Cedar Falls and University of Iowa at Iowa City, and is athletic director in the Baxter high school.

The couple will attend summer school in Iowa City, later visiting the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago. After September 1, they will make their home in Baxter, where Mr. For will resume coaching duties.

Cadman Choral Club Elects Officers

Cadman Choral club members elected officers and made plans for a concert to be given June 20 in Frances Willard auditorium when they held a business meeting in the Y. M. C. A.

Officers named were Mrs. Blanche Owens, president; Mrs. V. L. Clem, vice president; Mrs. John Clarke, secretary; Mrs. Iva Hallman, treasurer; Mrs. Earl Frevert, librarian; Mrs. John Bichan, Mrs. Louella Matney and Mrs. Glenn Hulse, board of directors.

Assigned Story Title Yields Interesting Manuscripts

Selection of the subject, "The Professor's Error," upon which each Quill Pen club member should write a story, verse or article, yielded an entertaining program Tuesday evening when the club met with the president, Mrs. J. D. Campbell, 182 South Pepper street, Orange.

Not all the members followed the suggestion, but those that did, proffered contributions whose sole point of similarity lay in their title. Mrs. Marshall Harms, for example, submitted a very clever little play; Mrs. Frank was produced a story of young love, gay and sparkling, and Mrs. J. U. Vinu appeared with one of those fantastic little tales she does so cleverly.

Program features also included Mrs. C. M. McClintock's series of "Impressions" in journalistic style which she is doing in a study course, and some very interesting poems and articles read by Miss Verna Wells, the work of a 12-year-old student at Roosevelt school. "Sunset" was one of the most enjoyable of the poems, and everyone spoke especially highly of the article on Patrick Henry.

For the post-program feature of the evening, an informal social hour, Mrs. Campbell arranged small tables for serving refreshments, centering each table with a bowl of gorgeous panicles to harmonize with those arranged artistically about her home.

One guest, Mrs. Myrtle Smith of Hollywood, shared the evening with Quill Pen members who were Mesdames J. D. Campbell, Maude Goff, N. E. Wells, J. U. Vinu, Marshall Harms, Neal Stanley, C. M. McClintock, Roy Winchester, Frank Was, Marah Adams, Miss Verna Wells and Miss Lella Watson.

Girl Scout Director Is Complimented At Luncheon

Expressing the opinion that they had derived unusual benefit from information from the visit in this city of Mrs. Mary Jane Littlefield, national field worker of the Girl Scouts, members of the local Girl Scout committee today recalled outstanding features of Mrs. Littlefield's day in Santa Ana.

Arriving here Monday forenoon, the national worker was received in the home of Mrs. A. W. Rutan, 2435 Riverside drive, where several committee members joined her for luncheon as guests of Mrs. Rutan. The latter is general chairman of plans for the girls' summer camp at Rokit in August. Miss Lavina Compton of Orange, who is to be one of the camp workers, Mrs. R. R. Russell and Mrs. Clarence Tedford completed the group.

In the afternoon they were joined by Mrs. Armand Heil of Westminster, Mrs. Arthur Lirette, Mrs. Rose Luff and Miss Doll Silver. Mrs. Littlefield gave them a world of information regarding camp plans and activities and how to tie local affairs in with the national program. She has just completed a tour of inspection of eastern camps and is now launching a similar tour which will begin at San Diego and end at the Canadian border.

The August term for local Girl Scouts at Rokit will be especially fortunate in being an accredited camp since the award of a scholarship at the Girl Scout Regional camp in the Big Basin, to Mrs. Russell. She will leave on July 2 for that interesting outing and instruction course which will follow the lines of the one held last summer. At that time 500 Girl Scouts and many leaders, representing 13 western states and Alaska, spent a valuable and interesting two weeks.

Pulitzer Prize Poem Read at Section Meeting

A thoroughly delightful program was that with which members of Ebells Modern Poetry section brought to a close their activities for the season, when they met Tuesday afternoon as guests of Mrs. Alice Hill Hatch and Mrs. Aldric Worswick, 725 Mortimer street.

Mrs. Robert Northcross had been fortunate in obtaining a copy of the Pulitzer prize poem, "Conquistador" by Archibald MacLeish, and this was read by Miss Mabel Whiting. Members were so impressed with the poem, a story of the Cortez invasion of Mexico as told in first person by one of his soldiers, that they decided to have a program on MacLeish's writing at the October meeting of the section. Mrs. Lillian Pritchett will give the review.

Original poems comprised the remainder of the program. Mrs. E. M. Nealley had written on "Appreciation of Modern Poetry"; Mrs. Edith Thatcher, "Soul of Japan and China"; Mrs. W. H. DeWolfe, "Grice Canyon"; Mrs. Harwood Sharp, on "Sunday"; Mrs. Worswick, "Automobile"; Mrs. Robert Northcross, "Chaperone"; Mrs. John Tessmann, a dedication to Miss Margaret Livingston; Mrs. S. B. Marshall, "The Old Cook Book"; Miss Beulah May, "To Mary"; Miss Vanche Plumb and Mrs. Horace Scott read poems which had been written by school children.

During the business session in charge of Mrs. Marshall, leader, the group voted to present Miss Celestia Straub with a volume of Keats. Mrs. Pritchett gave a review of the section's progress during the year now drawing to a close.

Refreshments were served from a decorated table, with Mrs. Marshall pouring tea. Members present other than the hostesses, Mrs. Worswick and Mrs. Hill, were Mesdames S. B. Marshall, Harwood Sharp, Robert Northcross, T. E. Stephenson, John Tessmann, W. H. DeWolfe, J. F. Richards, Edith Thatcher, E. M. Nealley, M. C. Maloney, L. M. Smith, Horace Scott, Lillian Pritchett, and the Misses Vanche Plumb, Mabel Whiting, Lucy Carter, Beulah May and Martha Ritchey. Special guests were Mrs. Lyles Glenn and Mrs. T. L. Hill, mother of the hostesses.

College Engineers Hold Picnic

Santa Ana Junior College branch of American Association of Engineers held its last meeting on Tuesday evening in the form of a steak bake at Irvine park at which time election of officers for the next semester was held. Francis Hall will conduct future meetings of the association as president; Kenneth Ulrich, vice president; Owen Owens, secretary; P. B. Stoddard, commissioner of finances; and Glenn Evans, publicity manager.

In order to determine who was to serve the steak menu, a baseball game was played between charter members and the newer members of the club. The new members served the supper, dessert for which was provided by Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Russell.

Guests of the Engineers were Mrs. Russell, Miss Etta Mae Conckle, Miss Mabel Whiting and Rufus Bond. Members present were Tom Moses, Tom Mackey, Oral Hays, Sam Teel, Francis Hall, Owen Owens, P. B. Stoddard, Kenneth Ulrich, Dick Pinkerton, Glenn Smith, Daniel Gardiner, Glen Evans, Dan Finch, Clifford Bates, Otto Maahs, Dave Whitford, Roosevelt Herkheimer, Aldon Melzahn, John Harkness and Sam Teuklan.

New Members Received Into Sigma Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi

Ceremonies serving to initiate into Sigma chapter, Beta Sigma Phi sorority, the Misses Lucie McDermott and Loretta Einspahr, were made especially colorful and enjoyable to all chapter members, by a close adherence to a Spanish theme on the part of the program chairman, Miss Delphinia Lopez. The party was held in Ketter's gold room as an event of recent date.

The Misses Marie LaBrucherie, Dorothy Lindsey and Delphinia Lopez as decorating committee, had the privilege of using rarely beautiful Spanish shawls, the property of Mrs. Alexander Jimenez of Anaheim. One gorgeous one in jet black, was draped with an ebony bowl of golden poppies. An all white shawl had as its complement, a basket of yellow cornucopia, and an ivory and amethyst shawl saw its embroidery repeated in the colors of gladiolus blooms used with it.

Miss Lopez had fashioned the clever place cards in the form of black combs with cords and sorority insignia in gold. A corsage of yellow roses was at the place of each initiate.

Miss Lynette Robb served as mistress of ceremonies and in the initiation rites, Miss Mary Ford, president, was assisted by the Misses Mary Louise Wallace, Lucille Meyer, Dorothy Lindsey and Lillian McDonald.

The Spanish program was delightful, and opened with numbers by the Gonzales trio, Sol Gonzales, violin; Stevan Rodriguez, cello, and Miss Ruth Frothingham, pianist. Among their selections were "Rosita," "Nidito de Amor," "Tango Campesita," "Por Fin Toros," "Manzanillo" and "Borracha," all of which were announced by Mr. Gonzales.

Miss Henrietta Armendariz sang charmingly, "Noche Azul" and "Cautiva," and Miss Anita Salazar danced "Jarabe Tapatio" and "El Mas Bonita Pie," with the same fire and grace that always distinguished the dancing of her older sister, Faustina Lucero, now Mrs. Raymond C. Comman.

An outstanding feature of the program was the music of Aaron Gonzales, Jr., of Los Angeles, formerly of Santa Ana and a nephew of Sol Gonzales. He is gaining recognition as one of California's most gifted song writers and orchestra leaders, and his 15-piece band is now at El Cortez hotel, San Diego, and broadcasting over the Columbia network.

Some of his compositions which have not yet been released to the public were played, including "Hour After Hour," featured by Bing Crosby; "Lovin'est Two in Love," featured by Phil Harris in his New York opening; "Tell Me," "Deep Melody," "Fifth Avenue," and "What's Going to Happen to Me."

Following this musical interlude was a series of short historical sketches of California missions, with Miss Lucille Meyer discussing San Diego; Miss Lillian Pritchett, San Gabriel; and Miss Dorothy Lindsey, San Juan Capistrano.

Present for the gala event in addition to the pledges and honorees, Miss McDermott and Miss Einspahr, were Mrs. Newell Moore, advisor, the Misses Mary Ford, Lynette Robb, Delphinia Lopez, Lillie Forberg, Laura Mallin, Elsie Stensen, Hazel Lee, Lucille Meyer, Sallie Coe Mueller, Marie LaBrucherie, Dorothy Lindsey, Ellen Sibley, Marie Louise Wallace, Ione Hanson and Katherine Spicer.

Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. Clark

Hostess to her associates in a bridge club, Mrs. Val Clark entertained a 1 o'clock luncheon in her home, 1915 Greenleaf street. Carnations and gladioluses proved attractive decorations.

In the bridge games which followed the luncheon, Mrs. John Lacy and Mrs. Henry Walters scored first and second high, and Mrs. Ruth Holmes was consoled. Those present were Mesdames John Lacy, William Bernice, John Persol and Miss Mary Lacy of Long Beach; Mesdames W. A. West, William Castler, Henry Walters, Raymond Crum, Ruth Holmes and the hostess, Mrs. Clark.

The club will meet again in two weeks with Mrs. Lacy.

Benefit Party Proves To Be Successful Affair

So successful from every standpoint was the party given Tuesday afternoon by St. Joseph's P. T. A. in the U. J. Engelman gardens, 2459 Heliotrope drive, that committee members in charge were agreed that their efforts in presenting the affair were more than rewarded.

The attractive grounds of the home, gay with their seasonal greenery and brilliant flowers, provided an ideal setting for the event. Umbrellas and painted outdoor furniture lent charm to the scene. Both auction and contract bridge awaited at the 22 tables utilized for play.

Table prizes proved to be the attractive little vases filled with yellow and white blooms which served as centerpieces during the refreshment hour. Linens, china and all other details conformed to the yellow and white motif which had been chosen as being especially appropriate to the early summer season. Ice-cream and cake frosted in yellow were served with coffee. During card play, ice cream juice had been dispensed to the guests.

Special prizes were won by Mrs. Don Hinkley and Mrs. Margaret Hower.

The hostess group was composed of Mrs. Engelman, Mrs. William H. Nass, Mrs. J. P. Murphy and Mrs. A. P. Le Gays. Proceeds from the affair go to the junior high department of St. Joseph's school.

Surprise Party Marks Silver Wedding Anniversary

Making the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Pierson of Tustin the occasion for a happy celebration, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Brader entertained Sunday afternoon in their home, 448 Fulwiler street.

The Piersons, unaware of the party plans made in their honor, arrived at the Brader home to find a large group of friends assembled. There was music and other entertainment during the general social time which followed.

Late in the evening, a buffet supper was served from a table appointed in blue and white linen and china. Bouquets of mixed flowers completed an effective setting. Mrs. B. O. Dye assisted the hostess in serving.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierson were presented with a set of salad forks, a gift from the assembled group. Guests were Messrs. and Mesdames W. P. McQuigan, G. C. Furtsch, W. H. Robbins, B. O. Dye and F. W. Eddy of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Shedd and Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Hefty, Tustin; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Peppin, Inglewood, and the honored guests and hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Pierson and Mr. and Mrs. Brader.

Jam And Jelly Shower Comes As Surprise To Honoree

Opportunity of viewing the many handsome wedding gifts which Mr. and Mrs. Glenn H. Bast have received since announcing their springtime wedding, was given a group of relatives and friends who took part in a surprise shower honoring the bride. The home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Prichard, 1161 Poinsettia street, was setting for the event.

Guests brought a supply of fresh jams and jellies for the new Mrs. Bast. Further indication as to the group's wishes for the bride's success in the culinary arts came when each one present wrote out a favorite recipe. These were placed together in a mixing bowl, and Miss Lucille Andrew drew out a recipe which made Mrs. Frank Sackman eligible for a special prize.

FULLERTON, June 9.—Graduating exercises for high school seniors will be held on the lawn of the campus Thursday afternoon. The program will include an address by Dr. Walter Dexter, president of Whittier college, on "Looking Ahead for the Graduates."

The complete program as scheduled includes an overture, "Tampa," by Harold, and a selection, "Babes in Toyland," Herbert, by the Fullerton Union High school band, under direction of Dudley Nashold. The band will play "National Emblem" Bagley, as the procession, Dr. Thomas Newlin will ask the invocation, after which the Girls' Glee club, under direction of Miss Ruth Tilton, and Miss Genevieve Townsend accompanying at the piano, will sing, "The Winds in the South," by Scott, and "All My Life Be Music," by Spoons.

Katherine Launer will give the valedictory address, after which Dr. Dexter will deliver his talk. Louis E. Plummer, superintendent of the high school and junior college, will present the class of 245 graduates, and Arthur Staley, president of the board of trustees, will award the diplomas. Dr. Newlin will pronounce the benediction, and the class will retire to the strains of a Wagnerian march.

Baccalaureate services for the class will be June 11 at the auditorium at 8 p. m., with A. S. Redfern, dean of boys, presiding. BOND ISSUE TO HELP JOBLESS GETS APPROVAL

FULLERTON, June 9.—On recommendation of A. B. Hillabold, Dan O'Hanlon and Verne Baker, a special committee, Fullerton chamber of commerce directors yesterday voted to recommend passage of the $20,000,000 unemployment bond issue that will be up to the California voters at the election June 27.

The recommendation for passage included the statement that it is only fair that the state do her share at relief of the unemployment situation and thus assure the continued assistance from the federal government.

The recommendation was at the regular luncheon meeting of directors. The Craig bill, Assembly bill No. 1272, providing for the state to undertake the posting of the highways, instead of its being continued by the automobile clubs, came in for considerable criticism. Allen Davis, attorney for the Auto Club of Southern California, and Robert Seaman, manager of the Fullerton branch office, declared that Craig had been misinformed. It is impossible that the state will save money, and pay all the expense of posting, part of which has been carried by the Auto club, they claimed.

At present, the state pays only for such posting as is demanded by the laws of the state, it was said. The Auto club cares for the extra posting for the convenience of the traveler, getting paid by the advertising used on the postings, and by the good will created, the speakers said.

CAN'T DRINK U. S. OUT OF DEBT, COUNCILMAN DECLARES

FULLERTON, June 9.—"You can't tell me prohibition has failed and that people are going to drink this country out of debt," City Councilman T. K. Gowen said today on his return from the middle west, where he traveled through many states, both going and coming by automobile.

"In most places, there were 'beer for sale' signs in front of restaurants," Gowen said. "I ate almost every meal where there were such signs, and not a single glass of beer did I see served on the whole trip."

"People don't like it. The older ones who used to drink it have forgotten how to enjoy it; the younger people haven't been trained to like it, so it just isn't being sold. You can't tell me prohibition has failed; it may be but it hasn't been perfectly enforced. But drink was hard enough to get, and unpopular enough, that few of the younger generation learned to drink it, and now they don't like it."

"Now what I want to know is, since people have forgotten or have not learned to drink the stuff, why help bring it back as something worth while, for them to learn to drink, and form a habit?" Councilman Gowen reported that things are looking up in that part of the country and that farmers are encouraged with a gradual rise in prices.

On his return home, he had accompanying him the Orack quartet, from the John Brown school, at Siloam Springs, Ark. The quartet is to appear Sunday morning at the Fullerton Methodist church.

RUBY BLYTHE BECOMES BRIDE OF C. W. KELLY

FULLERTON, June 9.—In a beautiful garden setting, and under a large white-flowered wedding bell, Miss Ruby Blythe last night became the wife of Clarence W. Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Kelly, Placentia, at an impressive ceremony in the Fullerton Christian church, witnessed by nearly 400 friends. The church was lighted by the soft dome lights and candles only.

The Rev. George Tinsley, pastor of the church, read the single ring ceremony, after the bride

CRAIG SPEAKS TELLS EFFECT ON ISSUES AT OF ALCOHOL ON JUNE ELECTION

FULLERTON, June 9.—"The question of whether it is wise to legalize beverages containing 3.2 per cent of alcohol by weight or 4.0 by volume is an apt one," said Dr. C. F. W. Kohlenberger, Fullerton physician, today, when he was asked to give a scientific opinion to The Register.

"In order to learn the true answer to this question we must ask the science of medicine to give us the facts about alcohol and the effects of it on human beings, since it is the alcoholic content of the beverages which produces the 'kick' or the intoxication," Dr. Kohlenberger said.

"Those who are wise will seek to learn before election day if alcohol will produce harm or will bring benefits. They will be guided by facts as shown by a science, not ballyhoo produced in political propaganda."

"What does medicine have to say about alcohol? Is it a stimulant? Is it a harmless beverage? Is it of benefit to mankind when taken as a beverage? What is the proper use of alcohol when taken internally? What damage ensues if its internal use? These are some of the very personal questions which the voter has to be able to answer intelligently before asserting his choice as to whether we shall legalize alcoholic beverages."

"Medicine has much to say about alcohol, because in one way or another it may effect the function of every organ of the body. Its most important influence is exerted upon the brain and the nervous system. This fact makes it most important that we shall be rightly informed, and that we shall act wisely when voting at the polls."

"When we look into a book of Pharmacology which tells us the action of drugs upon the body we learn that ethyl alcohol, the alcohol contained chiefly in intoxicating beverages, is not a stimulant, but that it is a depressant. We learn that it is not a harmless beverage, but that it is classified with the poisons, along with all the other alcohols."

"This fact is borne out when we

Week-end MURDER

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The story opens with a prologue in which a murder is committed by a homicidal maniac. Later he boards a train for Long Island, where he is to have a picnic. The name of the murderer is not disclosed.

The scene shifts to the Long Island home of LINDA and TOM AVERILL, married three years and much in love. Linda announces that instead of three guests over the week-end they are to have five. The guests will be COUSIN AMOS, elderly, distant relative of Linda's who is in New York on business and invited himself to visit the Averills; CAPTAIN DE VOS, handsome Belgian representing a European perfume manufacturer with whom Averill hopes to do business; MR. STATLANDER, middlewestern manager of the firm Averill works for; MARVIN PRATT, former suitor of Linda's whom she has not seen for several years; and LIAN SHAUGHNESSY, Irish writer on a lecture tour.

Immediately there is trouble. Cousin Amos grows angry at Bunty, a faithful old watchdog. At dinner he quarrels with Shaughnessy and calls him a dangerous rebel for defending Gandhi's work in India. Both men show violent tempers. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER V

Sure in the knowledge that the new lavender sports frock was a triumph of sophisticated simplicity, that her mellow tan brought out bewitchingly the blue of her eyes and the bronze lights of her hair, and feeling decidedly refreshed by a good night's sleep, Linda stepped with lifting freshness down the broad polished stairs. The air was fragrant of fresh roasted coffee within the house and mingled flowers and sea from without. She hoped none of her guests was before her. She had arranged for trays for the two Europeans; the others had assured her they would descend for breakfast. At any rate, Tom was down to do the honors until she arrived.

At the bottom of the winding flight she suddenly saw her husband and his expression annihilated in a second her carefree morning mood. Before Linda knew how she got there she was beside him and had her hand on his arm.

"Tom—what is it? Bingo?" "No. Oh, no, honey—not the kid. Sorry I scared you!" "What has happened?" "Poor old Bunty—"

"Oh! Linda's eyes filled with tears. "Died in her sleep, poor old dog. Well—we didn't expect—"

Tom looked at her, hesitated, then spoke reluctantly. "No—she didn't die in her sleep. Binks. Don't raise a row, though, of course, you wouldn't—"

Tell me quick—someone's coming!" "She was killed during the night. Out on the lawn toward the garage."

"Tom! The poor old dog! Where is she?" His jaw set.

"Where you won't see her, Linda. Sorry, but you mustn't—oh, good morning, Mr. Statlander! I hope you rested well last night. Glad we have such clear weather for the Fourth."

der into the breakfast room. Tom, I'll just pop into the kitchen—she bolted through the service door and stood a second or two in the short, cool passage. She wanted, oh, how she wanted, to run upstairs and fling herself childishly across her bed and cry. That poor old dog, that darling Bunty! Tom was so mysterious—what could have happened? Resolutely she put her thoughts on the important, control-saving duties of her housewifely duties.

The girls in the kitchen greeted her dejectedly. Stout Annie, queen of a magnificent new electric range, moved listlessly about this former, treasure, seeming not to know or care what her short, comely pet was doing. Water was abstractedly filling a water pitcher. Both waited for Linda to speak.

"It's a shame about the poor old dog and you girls know how I feel," she said. "But we've got company and we can't let down before them. Mr. Averill is in the breakfast room with one of the guests. Are you nearly ready?"

More than her matter-of-fact words, the appeal of her voice caught and steadied them. Annie moved more briskly. Rosie counted over her assembled jam dishes, butter plates and covered muffins with a seeing eye. Satisfied that all would now move smoothly, Linda went back down the narrow passage. As she emerged into the sunny entrance hall, brisk steps sounded on the stairs. Marvin Pratt was coming down, looking very thoroughly tubbed and shaved, rubbing his hands with anticipatory appetite. She greeted him and they joined the others in the little room off the more formal dining room.

Cousin Amos was already there—had been down some little while, he asserted proudly. "Roaming—unchallenged, this time—" with a flash of reminiscent injured dignity, "down to the very water's edge and enjoying the cool, sweet air of the early morning. I sometimes think," he added, "that only those who really love nature, and want to see her at her best, gladly pay the price of a little lost sleep to catch the charm and fragrance of the untainted morning hours."

At the reference to poor absurd Bunty's misplaced zeal Linda and Tom winced but the talk drifted on and by common consent they did not bring the tragedy to the breakfast table. But it was to come up soon after when a slam of the seven doors announced an arrival and Lian Shaughnessy, bearing his breakfast tray, appeared with the smiling, guileless face of a schoolboy.

"Oh, you shouldn't have bothered, Mr. Shaughnessy! Rosie would have collected that!"

"Sure and it was no bother to save the girl the trip," he asserted blithely. "And 'twas a thought for her and two for myself at that. A bit of my breakfast muffin saved, you see, to propitiate the wee white monster that set upon me in the dark last night as I entered my temporary abode. It took a kick that I'm sorry I made so lusty, the morning, to free me from the little beast's attentions. I'd have made my peace or bribed my way across the grass, at least, but I didn't encounter the little dog at all."

"I'm sorry Bunty troubled you last night," said Tom soberly. "She is—she was something of a watchdog but I never knew her so suspicious before. I'd have shut her up or sent her away yesterday if I'd known she was going to persecute our guests. I—I wish I had, for her sake, as well as for all of ours," he went on, realizing that there was no use avoiding mention of what must seem, to all these strangers, a minor domestic tragedy. "Bunty won't bother any of you any more. She—died—in the night."

"Ah—distemper?" Cousin Amos looked rather alarmed. "Perhaps that accounts. Will you have her— I understand they test the brain—"

"She wasn't mad and she won't be examined," Tom broke in savagely. "The old dog was simply mangled to atoms, Cousin Amos, by the very lawn Mr. Shaughnessy speaks of some time after we all went to bed."

An outburst of startled exclamations interrupted him.

"You mean deliberately killed?" "Any traces?" "Did you see there'd been burglars?"

"Deliberately killed—no traces—and there have been burglars operating around these parts since the summer homes began opening in the spring. It may be—"

"Poor little devil! The Irishman's voice vibrated with the rich, sentimental tenderness of his race. "I'm sorry for that kick—I am that!"

Tom glared at him. He knew the little dog had not deserved such rough treatment and now especially he could not forgive it.

"You—you couldn't help it," Linda tried to palliate the sin. "She did move quickly for an old dog, sometimes, and you must have been surprised—"

"We both were!" Shaughnessy laughed with the hearty abandon of the easily amused and then checked himself at his host's glance of disapproval.

"I'll be back in a moment—" said Linda suddenly, and fled upstairs. The men watched her, ill at ease. Then, abruptly deciding that the rest could content themselves a while without him, Averill excused himself and followed her. Halfway up the stairs he met the Belgian, coming down, and returned his suave greeting with curt brevity. Then, repenting, he stopped and turned.

"Excuse me, DeVos. We're a bit upset this morning. No, nothing serious. I'll be down shortly. You'll find the others in the room—"

Averill did not find Linda enjoying the relaxation of "a good cry" as he expected. Instead she was sitting on the edge of the bed, very calm and poised but facing the door as though waiting for him. When he did come she spoke in a tone of concentrated fury.

"Tom—your dead sure it wasn't an accident?"

"Couldn't have been, honey. The poor old dog was—well, just smashed!"

"Well, then—do you realize that whoever did it is right in this house now?"

"Linda!" He was shocked into a seriousness he seldom betrayed. "What on earth—? Why—?"

"Reason enough. I told you last night that every man of the lot has a terrible temper—the sort that would break out into goodness."

knows-what. Bunty did behave badly—I can't think why. Several of them had trouble with her and others might have. Mr. Shaughnessy admits he kicked her."

"I think that rules him out." Tom was so satisfactory. No matter how unreasonable one's notions, he always gave them fair consideration. "He wouldn't own up to it so quickly. Besides, he may be hot-tempered and impetuous, but that—"

Linda's lips set more firmly. "He's strong as an ox. And if he were annoyed—look how furious he got at Cousin Amos last night. He was just white with rage. I could see his hands shake! I wouldn't have been surprised if he'd strangled him! But then, every one of them could have done it!"

"Linda, darling, don't say that! Probably it was that burglar gang."

"In the first place, burglars poison dogs and get rid of them quietly. They don't bother to— mess them up the way you describe. That takes sudden temper. And then, if it were burglars, why didn't they go ahead and burgle when the dog was out of the way?"

"May have been afraid the fuss was overheard."

"Was the place locked up?" "Oh, sure. But of course with so many windows—"

"Can't you look on them for scratches or something?" "Yes, and I can ask all the people here to try to remember whether they heard any noises or disturbances last night."

"Of course, probably every one—except the one who did it—went right off to sleep. I know I did."

"So did I. But Linda—"

"What?" "Shaughnessy didn't go over to the garage by himself. I walked along the roadway with him and stood right at the edge of the grass until he went in the door. I didn't see Bunty then."

They looked at each other. "He must have come out afterwards. And he must have thought someone heard him or he wouldn't have taken pains to mention the kick. He really sort of dragged that in, Tom."

"Probably he wasn't sleepy, and just wanted to roam about."

"Um!" There was a wealth of incredulity in the grin syllable. "Well, what ought we to do?" "Nothing, my dear. Absolutely nothing! What can we do—interrogate him or any of the others?" "No—no, I suppose not. But, oh, Tommy, this gang is queer. There's something in the air—I told you last night—"

"Now you're having what the Victorians called the vapors. A sensible kid like you, Binks! I'm ashamed. Come on—we must go down. Ready?"

Skit Presented At Club Meeting

FULLERTON, June 9.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Staley of Placentia opened their spacious home Thursday to the Monday Afternoon Reading club, and as a final feature of the year's work, the members entertained the husbands and friends at a 6:30 o'clock dinner. Forty-four attended.

The men presented a pantomime skit, a parody on "Pocahontas," as a program. After dinner, which was served in the dining room, the time was spent at anagrams, with Mrs. Earl Dysinger winning first and Arthur Staley consolation prize.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

Poor Duncy knew what was in store when he heard Mister Giant roar. "Please light the kitchen oven, girls, and turn the fire up high."

Thought he, "I'm in an awful fix. Is this one of the giant's tricks? I fear, now, I can't get away, no matter how I try."

He then saw Doty walking round. She said, "Where can a match be found?" The giant promptly answered, "In a box, upon the shelf."

"Be careful you don't spill them all when you climb up, and don't you fall. Perhaps I'd better light the fire, so you won't burn yourself."

"Oh, no!" said Doty. "I'm all right. I'm sure that I know how to light the oven. You can sit still, and continue with your lunch."

"Tell Goldy, if you want some more hot coffee. There is lots in store. Then, why not snooze? I really think that is a happy hunch."

THE REPUTATION OF BANKING

The wrong doing of any individual hurts the reputation of all who are engaged in that particular industry. It ought not to be so, but unfortunately human nature is just what it is.

If a lawyer betrays his trust it is excuse for many to say "that is typical of lawyers." If a doctor or surgeon makes a mistake, "that is typical of his profession," cries the mob. If a preacher goes wrong "all preachers are hypocrites," think many. And the exposure of some bankers hurts the reputation of all bankers.

We would remind our readers, however, as the exposure of the Morgan interests is being made, that neither state nor Federal authorities have regularly checked the Morgan banking house. It has been a private banking concern, without being subjected to either state or national supervision. Many of the practices that have been carried on by the Morgan interests, and particularly the deal whereby the Morgan partners received a vast amount of stock at "inside" prices, at about fifty per cent of what it was selling for on the market, would not be permitted in a banking concern operating under state or national law.

In the end, the Morgan concern will have to become simply an investment house or come under state or national supervision. The way men engaged in the same line of business, as those who are being exposed in their undertaking, can help redeem their own group from suffering, is to aid in uncovering those things which are wrong in the procedure. By so doing, they help clear up and establish their own group on a better foundation and with a better reputation.

While it is true the Morgan people did nothing that private individuals in business, in the organization of companies, have not done, it should be remembered that these people have not done it as a banking institution. They have done it as individuals. They have not had the privilege of receiving large deposits as a payment from those institutions, the directors of which they are favoring in the allocation of stock at less than market prices. Other bankers or bank directors do not do these things.

Individually, they may sit in with business men, but they do not do it as a banking group, and the bankers themselves should differentiate and should condemn banks doing these things as an organization. Take the amount of stock that was allocated to the Morgan group alone. The directors must have made at least a profit of between four and five million dollars simply by accepting the stock, and selling it on the market.

Those who were on the favored list of receiving such opportunities were too frequently directors in institutions that had deposits with the Morgan bank. They were receiving rewards, and they were keeping deposits of their institutions in the bank, and the institution itself did not receive this reward, but the director did in his individual capacity.

If these men were in public life, and deposited public money in that manner, and then received such reward, it could hardly be distinguished from bribery. It certainly would be illegal. The public official would immediately find himself confronted, if not by the law, by such hostile public opinion that his tenure of office would be in jeopardy.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE OFFICIALS

We are led, from time to time, to criticize public officials. Of course a man in accepting public office, carrying on public affairs, voluntarily places himself in a position where his acts are public, have to do with public business, and thereby subjects himself to having his acts criticized, because they are the acts of the agent of the public itself.

Our attention was called sometime ago to the thought, however, that if we compared, man for man, public officials with private officials, we would find that taking the public officials by and large, that there is actually less dishonesty and less embezzlement, less of the spirit of bribery and more devotion, if not more ability shown in the public interest by public officials, than by private individuals working for corporations.

Since our attention was called to that thought, we have been watching and examining, and we believe there can be no doubt but that this is true. Where there is one public official exposed as a bribe taker, it is usually in a small amount and a single instance, whereas there are a hundred cases of private individuals having gone wrong, betrayed their trust, not only in one instance, but in a continued series of instances, which have wrecked institutions, and placed thousands of perpetrators of the wrong in penitentiaries.

We could recite many of these cases. To be sure, we had the Fall-Doheny scandal, but nationally where before we had anything like it, and even then there was not as much money involved, granting the guilt of the parties, as there has been in eight or 10 cases of fraud and wrong doing right here in Los Angeles, which we might cite.

There may be a misuse of public office, unduly favoring friends over others, in the letting of public business, but when it comes to violations of law, misuse of funds and misappropriation of funds, the public official stands up like a great monument. Of course, when business is run by the owners, or by a group of owners, this dishonesty does not occur although there may be occasions where one will "chisel in" on the others. But you will find great misappropriations occurring in corporations, where the directors of a corporation have access to the funds of their stockholders.

We are not saying this in defense of the public official who does make mistakes, we are emphasizing it rather for the purpose of setting our own thinking right, in the relationship of public to private business. The general spirit is to think that if a matter is turned over to public officials, it is hopeless, but if it is turned over to a private corporation, then we can look for results. The truth is that the public officials realize their trust is to the public, and the private officials too often consider that whatever they can do for themselves is rather legitimate, under the rules of the game.

This does not go to the point that we should relinquish our inspection of public officials, but rather that we should give credit where it is due, and insist on the rules of equity and justice and honor being observed in private practices.

"EUROPE HEADS FOR WAR"

So says Frank Simonds in an article in the June Harpers. He points out the irritations left in Europe by the Treaty of Versailles. The Polish Corridor and Danzig irritate Germany. Fiume and Dalmatia irritate Italy. The partition of Austria and the prohibition of annexation to Germany irritate both states concerned. The complaints of the Hungarians and the Bulgarians against the exaction of large blocks of territory to add to Roumania and Yugo-Slavia are irritating. All these, he believes, unless the treaty is revised, will tend toward conflict and ultimate war.

This position is simply a restatement in brief of Mr. Simonds' of that taken in his book, "Can Europe Keep the Peace?" Mr. Simonds has a tendency to see the dark side of the shield. He did so during the war. And yet there is much in what he says. The only thing that Mr. Simonds seems to overlook is the reluctance of peoples to enter into war while the memories of the last war are still vivid. The partition of Europe by the Treaty of Berlin after the fall of Napoleon was quite as irritating as anything produced by the Treaty of Versailles. But it was many years after that a war of any great proportion was entered upon.

Since that time the world has travelled on a considerable distance toward a peace consciousness. The cost of war, the burdens which it piles upon victor and vanquished alike, all tend to make nations hold back. We do not deny that much that Mr. Simonds says has plausibility. But we doubt if his dreaded fears are all justified. We may have another European war in this generation; but from the experiences of the past the chances are not that such a war will come until the memories of the previous war grow less vivid than they are now.

"Aere Perennius"

Robert Louis Stevenson in his "Forest Notes" tells of the capture of a stag in the Forest of Senlis, near Paris, by Charles VI, bearing a collar with the inscription, "Caesar mihi hoc donavit." So centuries hence will travelers in our national parks and even some of our State parks find bronze tablets bearing this inscription:

STEPHEN TYNG MATHER.
July 4, 1867—January 22, 1930

He laid the foundation of the National Park Service, defining and establishing the policies under which its areas shall be developed and conserved unimpaired for future generations. There will never come an end to the good that he has done.

Already these bronze memorials have been placed in more than ten national parks and along the scenic highway in the Cascade Mountains that bears his name. We now have one near New York, unveiled on Saturday in the Palisades Interstate Park on Bear Mountain. But the trees in these places that have been set apart for the nation's use will in their ever-renewed life be an even more enduring monument to him who gave years of his life to making these parks serviceable to the people. Here, as Henry van Dyke said in his "Ged of the Open Air" men and women

By the faith of wild flowers that bloom unbidden.
By the calm of the river's flow to a goal that is hidden.
By the strength of the tree that clings to its deep foundation
By the courage of birds' light wings on the long migration, are taught to confide and live and rest.

Of Stephen Mather, who helped so mightily and so devotedly to create and to preserve for highest uses of a people these places, it may be said in Horace's phrase that the greater part of him escaped the death-godness. "No washing rain, no furious north wind or countless chain of years" can destroy his monument, more lasting than bronze.

Another Norman Conquest

Christian Science Monitor

The French are invading Britain and John Bull is bracing himself to meet the attack as staunchly as did the Saxon bowmen when William the Conqueror leaped on English soil leading the flower of Norman knightliness.

Instead, however, of the arrow and javelin of King Harold's huscarls entrenched on the heights of Senlac, the present-day invaders are arming themselves with irregular verbs, unseasonably collected from half-forgotten school days, and hurling them at the oncoming host from behind the stout stockade of Chardanel's First French Course.

It is all the fault of the gold standard. Departure from the latter has made departures from Charing Cross and Waterloo to Calais and Dieppe considerably less frequent. Sadly, Englishmen have contemplated the 30 per cent increase in fares and other costs of travel and decided to stay at home.

Conversely their neighbors across the Channel have discovered that the thrifty franc has suddenly developed a superthriftiness so that every day is bargain day en Angleterre. Now, from the white cliffs of Dover to the farthest Trossachs, the voice of the Frenchman is heard in the land and the skirling bagpipes of Scottish Highlanders are playing "La Marseillaise." In aiding visitors from France who seek the Tower and Piccadilly veritable London bobbies, in tactful imitation, are adding eloquent gesticulation to imperfect parts of speech.

Boarding-school French commands a premium, even when the fair speaker's linguistic attainment is "on" the order of that of Chaucer's lady, whose

After the scold of Stratford atte Bowe,
For French of Paris was to him unknown, and it goes without saying that every gallant Frenchman protests he understands.

BE WARNED IN TIME

Some psychologists now believe that certain people give off rays of kindness or hatred.

The man who hated Doctor Fell—
Though why, he said, he could not tell—
A scientist
Would not insist
For life was poorly fitted.
Today this man could clearly see
That he disliked the old M. D.
Because his gaze
Base evil rays
From time to time emitted.

We doubtless very soon shall know
Who is our friend, and who our foe.
A good man's looks,
Unlike a crook's,
Forthwith will draw him to us.
While if one's rays malicious are
Upon our nerves they're bound to jar,
And we'll ev'rt
Some mortal hurt
The scoundrel means to do us.

Beware of men whose faces seem
With grim hostility to gleam;
Don't take a chance
On one whose glance
Will trouble and upset you.
The rays which from him emanate
Are filled with fierce, though unseen hate.
And in the end,
You may depend,
The spiteful will get you.

Imitation is also the flattest sincerity.
So far as the town man's sympathy is concerned, farmers who spill the milk spill the beans.
Learn to do perfect work. It is always the bum counterfeit that sends engravers to jail.
Man always develops a defense against new weapons. Chicago's fair will introduce houses of steel.
People have little faith. They always pray for rain instead of praying for the crop to flourish without it.

THE WAY MODERNS LIVE, A WIFE NEVER STAYS IN ONE PLACE LONG ENOUGH TO KNOW WHETHER HER HUSBAND HAS LEFT HER.

Well, we deserve it all for having been dumb enough to cuss the banker who said no.
If a writer pans Garbo once, that's criticism; if he does it often, that's getting even for a snub or something.
The rich man has his troubles, too. He can pay an income tax of only $8.65, but there's always the danger that his book-keeper will get mad at him.

AMERICANISM: Running a temperature when some other land abuses the helpless; working children long hours at 30 cents a day.

There's nothing so disgusting a great financier as having some two-by-four government employee uncover his crookedness.
Paying taxes to support schools is especially painful when you reflect that almost everybody responsible for the present state of affairs was educated.
The final proof of compassion is to pity cripples who are crippled above the ears.

THE HONEYMOON IS OVER WHEN HE ASKS HER IF HE NEEDS A SHAVE AND SHE SAYS, WITHOUT LOOKING, THAT HE DOESN'T.

Definition of golf: Pale pills pursued by purple people.
The chief cause of present troubles: Too many callouses on our consciences and not enough on our hands.
Overheard on a bus: "Man's a smart animal. He dunno where he came from, where he's goin' or where he's at."
As we understand it, the hardest problem in golf is how to keep your audience from escaping.

EDUCATING FOR BEAUTY

The nation that forgets beauty will in time find the foundations of even its technical and economic achievements crumbling.

A people dares not allow beauty to become the exclusive possession of antique dealers and millionaire collectors unless it wants to face a social reckoning sooner or later.

I am devoting these articles this week to discussions of the arts in education because of the conviction I have argued off and on throughout the last three years that there are values which lie beyond economics and unless we safeguard these values in the midst of the economic crisis, economic recovery will prove a barren achievement.

The arts in education can make the most important single contribution towards the preservation and promotion of beauty in our civilization.

Beauty is not a thing that can be bought by a rich nation. Beauty, save as a museum piece, is something born in the soul of a sensitive and radiant people.

Unless the beauty in a civilization comes up from the grass roots, it is but a tinsel something tacked on and means but little save the precious few.

And beauty—we must not forget—has a very intimate bearing upon the social content or discontent of a people. Social unrest finds its readiest recruits among men who have never been able to find joy and beauty in their jobs and in their environment.

It is an old observation that hungry men turn radical.

What we are likely to forget is that men with full stomachs are still hungry with a gnawing hunger for the things that make life free and adventurous and abundant. Maybe statesmen have overlooked beauty as a campaign issue, for men do not revolt against a government that is making their work, their lives and their environment beautiful.

Beautiful homes, beautiful factories, beautiful countryside, beautiful relations in business and industry, a community, state and national life that stimulate and satisfy men's hunger for beauty—these are the things that turn the ruin of revolt into the radiance of creative living.

Beauty is better and cheaper than the big stick in assuring a contented and orderly national life.

The arts in education are making for this element of beauty in men's lives. Let's not thoughtlessly eliminate from the schools at this crucial time so vital an element of education.

CRITICAL CHILDREN

If a child had the measles would accept the fact, sorely against your will, put him to bed and nurse him through them until he was cured. You would not expect him to manifest signs of sturdy health until the rash had disappeared and his temperature was normal. Even then you would allow him a period of convalescence before sending him out on his daily occasions.

Children have upsets that are as definite as an attack of measles and we insist upon ignoring them and making the child behave as though he were perfectly fit. Emotions are definite forces and they have their own way with the children at certain stages of their growth. It is only when we have established control over our emotions that we can be said to be grownup people ready to carry our fair share of life's burdens. Children have a long way to go before that day arrives and we ought to consider these emotional storms and give them the treatment they demand.

A boy comes home from school and bursts into a rage. He scolds about everything and nothing. His teachers say he was all right in school. A very good pupil. The family feel abused and turn on him with harsh words, punishments and upbraiding generally. He gets no better and the strain on him and on the family becomes acute. He needs to go to bed and rest. He needs time out for his nerves to settle so he can gather himself together and take control once more. That necessity is just as pressing as it was when he had the measles.

When a girl becomes critical of her family, piling flaws in father and mother, wishing father would wear a soft hat, that mother would cut her hair, or let it grow long, that brother could be a gentleman once in a while, that the whole family would attend to their own business and allow her to go her ways in peace, ending up by wishing that she were dead and threatening to jump into the lake, keep calm. Don't be tempted into saying "Go ahead." It won't help any to say hard words to her. Put her to bed and let her rest a while. Talk to her later when she is rested up and feels better.

Adolescent children are emotionally disturbed. They need frequent rests, occasional changes of scene and work and associations in general. If the critical complaining ones could be sent to a distant place on a visit it would do them worlds of good. Sometimes a visit to some friends in the home town is enough to redirect their thoughts and calm their distress. Strangers often have a more direct influence at such times than the family have and a short cut is worth while.

These young people do not know what ails them. They do not know what they want. They think they do but when they have the thing they asked for in their hands their condition is not improved. Often it is worse. Things, gifts, possessions will not help. The mental attitude is what is wrong. Freshen it up with new associations, give the young person a new point of view and he will return bright and cheerful, more pleased with his family and with his own condition.

It was always hard to be adolescent but it is much harder for the present generation than usual. Give them a little extra care and a little more of kindly understanding, and a big lift when you find them in distress. (Copyright, 1933, The Bell Syn., Inc.) (Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, including stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
